April 4.-(Special.)-The house voted on the question of passing the seigniorage bill over the president's veto

Republicans.. .. .. .. 59

The vote stood 144 to 114-not two-thirds, and the seigniorage bill is now dead. An analysis of the vote, however, shows that eight more than two-thirds of the democrats voted to pass the bill over the veto. With the republicans out it would have passed. The 144 votes in the affirmative were composed of 118 democrats, eighteen republicans and eight populists.

The negative vote showed fifty-five democrats and fifty-nine republicans. Every Georgian voted to pass the bill over the veto. Smaker Crisp himself had his name called and voted aye. When he did it there was applause from the majority of demo-

The fight was unexpectedly launched upon the house. It was short and quick, but it was wildly exciting. It again showed the necessity of the clear head of Speaker Crisp to pilot the house to action. It again demonstrated what a necessity he is to the nouse and on all hands the expression was heard: "What a splendld thing it was for the house that Crisp did not resign."

A quorum of democrats was again pres ent this morning, and after several roll calls Mr. English, of California, was seated. Bland Bill Called Up.

Then Mr. Bland called up the seigniorage bill and moved its passage over the president's veto. Immediately there was great excitement on the floor. As the clerk read the bill Mr. Bland sat silently chewing his wad of tobacco.

Little Mr. Tracey, of New York, rushed to General Sickles to confer with him. Tom Reed, Burrows, Boutelle and Cannon conferred. As soon as the reading was over General Sickles cried out: "Mr. Speaker, I aise the question of consideration." He tried to argue his point and at the same ime everybody else in the house tried to

Finally the speaker overruled the ques ion of consideration on the ground that the constitution provided that a bill vetoed by the president should be returned to the use in which it originated, and that when turned such house should immediately vote, postpone, but the question of conleration was not in order.

When the speaker completed his ruling Mr. Boutelle, of Maine, suggested in his sual sarcastic style that he would like to have additional reasons.

Sit Down Boutelle. "As the chair has stated before," responded Speaker Crisp, "when the chair makes ruling and gives reasons it holds that no entleman has the right to ask for any other and further reasons than those "That is one of the later innovations of he chair," facetiously remarked Boutelle. "That is one of the rulings which has en made to resent what the chair regards impertinence," quickly replied the eaker in firm and commanding tones. Boutelle dropped in his chair and the demrats fairly yelled in applauding the uterances of Speaker Crisp.

Then there were loud cries of "Vote, te," on the democratic side. Done with a Rush.

Mr. Bland cried amid the furor that he willing for an immediate vote. speaker put the question quickly and deared that under the constitution an aye and nay vote was required, and at once the lerk began the roll call. The republicans ere taken off their feet. They wanted ebate. They wanted a cat and dog fight nong the democrats. Reed jumped up to otest; so did Boutelle. But the speake uled them out of order, as the roll call enced. Reed persisted and the speaker omptly ordered him to take his seat. At the democrats applauded. Reed sat own looking grum. He was too slow for nce. During the roll call great excitement vailed. Every eye was upon the "cuckoo" lement. The majority of them stood by the president, and some who have never en cuckoos before went to him. ourse, every one knew the bill could not e passed over the veto.

When the vote was announced the cucoos attempted to get up applause, but it

Turpin Was Lonesome. There were some surprises in the vote he most notable one was the vote of Mr. Turpin, of Alabama, always, heretofore, silver man, but now voting in the negative. All the other Alabamians, Colonel Oates ncluded, voted in the affirmative. The Marylanders voted in the negative, ut besides these all southern men voted to pass the bill over the veto, except Davey and Meyer, of Louisiana; Berry and Caruth, of Kentucky; Cobb, of Missouri, and Turpin, of Alabama. The other forty-eight mocrats voting to sustain the veto came from the eastern and middle states, with a few from the northwest. Thus ends the seigniorage bill. The senate can take no action on the veto, as the bill, being a ouse bill, was returned to that body. But the silver question will not down. Yeas, 144. This is the vote in detail on the question This is the vote in detail on the question of passing the seigniorage bill over the president's veto. A comparison and recount showed but 114 votes in the negative:

propriations. Washington, April 4.—The senate consumed two hours again today in an effort to dispose of the nomination of Henry W. Long, to be register of the Florida land office. No voting quorum appeared, and the senate adjourned, as it did yesterday, with the case still in statu quo. The vote was taken on Mr. Pasco's motion to re-commit the nomination to the committee, but Mr. Call and his followers, who are in the majority, refused to permit this to be done. Mr. Pasco insisted that the man be given another hearing before the committee, and Mr. Call asserted that it was sufficient to know that the nominee was his bitterest enemy, and that the nomination had been made as a personal affront to him. This led to some warm words between the two Florida senators but nothing approaching the sensational.

RHODE ISLAND'S ELECTION. The Republicans Elect Their Entire

State Ticket. Providence, R. I., April 4.-Practically complete returns show that Brown, repub lican, for governor, will be elected by fully 4,500 plurality. It has been a republican landslide and the democratic rout is complete. The entire republican state ticket is elected and the legislature is overwhelmingly republican. Last year the democrats controlled the house, having forty representatives. This year they will have only four. The former democratic cities of Providence, Newport, Pawtucket and Woonsocket, have gone republican.

Three Train Robbers to Be Executed

Tomorrow. Little Rock, Ark., April 4.—Brady, Mansker and Wyrick, the convicted Oliphant train robbers, were taken to Newport today by Sheriff Hobgood and two deputies. Their execution takes place Friday, They will be closely guarded to prevent any attempt at rescue. Dr. Frank White, penitentiary physician, accompanied them as spiritual adviser. Brady says his execution will be legal murder.

Planting Less Cotton. Baltimore, Md., April 4.—The Manufac-turers' Record will publish this week let-ters from thirty large fertilizer dealers in Florida, Tennessee, Virginia, Mississippi, Alabama, North Carolina, Georgia and South Carolina, which show that less cot-ton is being planted this year, and that more attention is being given to food prod-ucts. Sixteen of the firms estimate that the area of cotton planted this year will be from 5 to 30 per cent less than last year; eighteen note an improvement in the gen-eral condition of business.

Central American Countries Refuse to Pay the Premium on Silver.

THE WHITE METAL'S OPPORTUNITY

Now Is the Time to Begin the Revolt Against Gold's Selfish and Cruel Domination.

Washington, April 4 .- (Special.) -- Silver is bobbing up again all over the world with a buoyancy that clearly demonstrates that it cannot be held beneath the surface.

Neither England's action nor the acts of the present administration of the United States government can hold the white metal down.

the American continent are rising up to protest and to force England to recognize silver as it has been recognized in the past. The Central and South American republics are refusing to pay interest on their bends held in England, in gold, when England is attempting to make silver a worthless metal.

This action on the part of these countries will do more than anything which has occurred lately to bring about bimetallism all over the world. They can force England to take steps toward bimetallism. With the United States leading in the movement, it would seem that Great Britain would have to come into line.

It will be remembered that the London Chamber of Commerce recently submitted a memorial to the British government, praying for an international inquiry into the causes of the decline and fluctuation of the value of silver, and for relief from the embarrassment and losses suffered therefrom by British merchants doing business with countries where silver is the common currency and the standard of value. This memorial demonstrated that the pocket nerve of England is being severely pressed, or her merchants would not cry out in pain.

As this memorial was presented just as the change from Gladstone to Roseberry occurred but little attention was paid to it. Now, however, another blow has been struck and the result is a loud remonstrance and an appeal to the government for pro-

Guatemala, through its representative in London, has announced that the interest on its bonded debt would have to be passed on account of the low price of silver and the high rate of exchange, Guatemala dollar, which has been worth 75 cents, has dropped to 38 cents, and as the revenues of the republic are received in silver the interest on the bonds is practically doubled and the government is made to pay 8 per cent instead of 4 per cent per an-

The Englishmen who hold the Guatema lan bonds made an inquiry into the matter and found that the default is not due to the inability of Guatemala to meet its financial obligations, but is for the purpose of punishing England for her stubborn opposition to bimetallism and her responsibility for the decline in the value of silver by suspending coinage in India. The bondholders want the British government to force Guatemala to pay its obligations. But England cannot force the payment of this debt. If she attempts it by force she will have to blockade every harbor south of the gulf of Mexico, for the example of Guatemala is likely to be followed by all Central and South American countries.

Again she could not enforce it, for under the Monroe doctrine the United States would not submit to any active war on the part of England against any country on the American continent.

It is possible that Mexico may serve similar notice upon the holders of her bonds in Great Britain before many weeks have passed. Nearly all the foreign or external debt of Mexico, which amounts to $82,500,000, is held in London. When it was negotiated, at 6 per cent, the Mexican silver dollar was worth about 95 cents in gold, making the interest on the bond, if computed in silver less than 61/2 per cent. At present the Mexican dollar is worth only 48 cents in gold, and as the revenues of the Mexican government are exclusively in silver, the interest charged is practically between 13 and 14 per cent and its obligations are doubled.

Mexico holds Great Britain responsible for this situation, and the Mexican government is now inclined to retaliate as has Guatemala. It is not the idea of the Mexican government to repudiate her debt but to postpone its payment until England stops its war upon silver.

Similar action may also be expected cn the part of the Argentine Republic. The people down there approve Guatemala's action and indeed the action of the little republic of Guatemala has the sympathy of all the Latin American republics. all the Latin 'American republics.

One of the diplomatic representatives of a South American republic predicted to me today that before the 1st of July they would all suspend payment until silver had recovered something of its normal value.

"If silver continues to decline," he said, "or if the present conditions continue, we shall be unable to meet our obligations, because we receive our revenues in silver.

because we receive our revenues in silver ney and are compelled to pay our obli-ions in gold. Gold is now worth twice gations in good of the state of the same as much as it was when those obligations were incurred, which is not our fault, but the fault of our largest creditor, England If England destroys our ability to pay our lehts she can blame no one but Every nation in Central and South America will default in its interest unless something is done to restore the value of our money and it is right for England to suffer for and it is right for England to suffer for it, because she is mainly responsible for the existing conditions. If she will recognize silver as money, the rest of the world will do so. If she will not, her people must take the consequences."

Mr. Romero, the Mexican minister here,

Mr. Romero, the mexican infinister here, is now moving to have a conference of all American nations in Washington with a view to a united effort to secure the recognition of silver as money. He addressed a communication to Secretary Gresham, but has received no reply up to date. The representatives of other American countries, however, heartily approve of the plan. Of however, heartily approve of the pian. Of course, the pressure on the part of the people will force the administration here at Washington to go into it. It is peedless to say, however, that Mr. Cleveland will attempt to queer it. But congress will approve the scheme and will soon take some action upon it.

Washington, April 4.—Colonel Breckin-ridge ended his testimony today, after hav-ing been on the stand almost continuously since Thursday. Tomorrow the defense may submit some additional testimony, but it is more likely that the rebuttal of the plain-tiff's evidence will begin, and there is every indication that all the evidence will before the jury when the court addougns. before the jury when the court adjourns over on Friday until Monday. The day was not sensational. Colonel Breckinridge took the stand as soon as court met, and assumed his fa-miliar position of ease—the right hand in his trousers pocket, and his head resting on the left hand, the elbow leaning on Judge Bradlev's Jesk.

Judge Wilson began his examination by asking if Colonel Breckinr.dge remembered saying to the servant woman at Mrs. Thomas's, the day after he had taken lunch there with Mice Pollard, "Mary, that was a very with Miss Pollard, "Mary, that was a very nice lunch, and when Madeline and I go to housekeeping I want you to come with us."

"Oh, that's not true; that's merely a fancy sketch," said Colonel Breckinnidge, with a laugh; "there's not a word of truth in it." Judge Wilson was particularly desirous of knowing whether Colonel Breckinridge had ever made expressions of love and affec-tion to the plaintiff, and the defendant said he had never used such expressions to Miss Pollard.

Pollard.

Colonel Breckinridge said he had used expressions that might be fairly construed as expressions of affection towards Miss Pollard, although he never used expressions of love. "They were merely expressions of love. "They were merely expressions that a man would use towards a woman for whose condition he felt partly responsible," said Colonel Breckinrdge.

"Then the expressions you used were such as to give the plaintiff the idea that you had love and affection for her?"

"No; there never was anything said or done to give her the idea that I loved her. I am not prepared to say what ideas she

I am not prepared to say what ideas she had about the matter." Then you never did anything to give her the idea that you loved? Took Her in His Arms.

"Well, I took her in my arms and kissed her, and did those things which naturally resulted from our relationship. Every thing was done kindly, but there was no loving."

"You merely took her in your arms then assist in the gratification of those relations you maintained."
"No, hardly that. They were the unturnel result of what our relations were." ral result of what our relations were. Judge Wilson asked Colonel Preskintlege with reference to his statement on Monday that the publication of a scandal destroyed a woman, while it sometimes this injures a man. "Do you thing," he asked, man to keep a woman from that destruc-

"Undoubtedly," said Colonel Breckinridge "I have not denied that. I have been gu'lty in a degree and I am standing my publish-ment without complaint or an attempt to ment without complaint or on a ttempt to flee from the consequences."

In answer to Judge Wilson, the defendant said he had told the plaintiff many times that marriage between them was impossible.

Why He Wouldn't Marry Her. "I told her," he said, 'that she could not expect me to marry her. There were the illicit relations with Mr. Rodes, and that after she had had Mr. Rodes for three years and thrown him away sike a sucket range, I could not contempiate marriage with her and look upon her as a wife whom could trust, or whom a could take into my family."

After Judge wilson has made colored brecking de say that Miss Polard with in the best society in Washington; that she lived at the most respectable houses, and that her social standing was of the best, he asked if there was then any social impediment to the marriage of the plaintiff and himself, and Colonel Breaknridge said there was nothing known to the world that could act as an impediment. Colonel Breckinridge explained in great detail the nature of the agreement to throw Mrs. Blackburn off the scent as to their relations which included the semblance of an engagement that Miss Pollard might drop out of his life respectably.

Colonel Breckinridge admitted, after frequent questions put to him, that he had connived at the deception practiced on Mrs. Blackburn. "And you took this young woman there and placed her under Mrs. Blackburn's protection?" asked Juage Wilson.

"No, I think not. The understanding and recollection of Mrs. Blackburn and myself do not agree on that point.' "And you caressed the plaintiff in her presence?"

"No, 1 did not. The caresses given were not mine.

Where He Married.

After questioning the witness about his trip to New York in April, 1892, when he was married, and his meeting with the plaintiff at the Hoffman house, Judge Wilson handed Colonel Breckinridge a paper and asked him if that were a fac simile of his marriage certificate. Colonel Breckinridge said it looked like the original, but he saw it was not. he saw it was not.
"When you put down on this certificate that you had been married once, was that Dr. Paxton was suffering from a nervous headache and ne asked me to do the writing, to which I at first laughingly demurred, saying it was hard for a man to write out his own marriage certificate."

"Did you ask Dr. Paxton to suppress the marriage certificate?"

"I told him to keep it secret. If you want me to tell you why I will do so," Judge Wilson did not ask.
"Where did you go the night of your narriage? "My wife and I went to the Hotel Logeeau, at Eighteenth street and Broadway."

"Did you register under an assumed

"I did—under the name of William J. Campbell and wife." 'From what place did you register?"

"From what place did you register?"
"I think I did not put down any address."
The cross-examination here rested, and Butterworth took up the redirect, examination, but no new points were developed.
After a consultation between Colonel Breckinridge and his lawyers, Major Shelby said he thought the case of the defense might end at that point, but he asked that the court adjourn then in order to give the defense time to consult as to what it would do. The usual hours had not not be to be the court of the co deferse time to consult as to what it would do. The usual hours had not arrived, but Judge Bradley agreed to the adjournment. The Crowd Lectured.

But before the crier formally an that the court was adjourned, the crowd began to move out. Then Judge Bradley became angry, and, stiffening up, he cried: "Take your seats and go back there, take off your hats!" This was the introduction to a scorching lecture to the perpetrators, in which he said the curiosity exhibited by them had been disgusting. Corridors had been crowded by the prurient and crowds had assembled before the office of the counsel. The spectators, he said, were also on trial. "On trial for common sense and decency, and I am ashamed to say that their conduct has resulted in a verdict of guilty of indecency. They remind me of buzzards sitting on a fence corner waiting the opportunity to pick up a little carrion. Adjourn the court," and the court was adjourned.

begun yesterday against the bill, resuming at the point where he left off, as to the difference between the ad valorem system of duties, as provided for in the bill, and the system of specific duties, for which he was contending. There were very few senators in the chamber when he began to speak—not more than ten on each side—and the galleries were not half full. Mr. Mills the galleries were not half full. Mr. Mills replied to Mr. Allison's argument and contended that the specific system of duties so extolled by the senator from Iowa was a tax levied on articles by quantities, disregarding values, and was an un-American, and undemocratic, and unjust system, while the ad valorem system was a tax levied on articles according to their value and was a fair and just system. He was asked by Mr. Mitchell, of Oregon, why, if that was the fact, there were 200 or 300 instances in the bill where specific duties were imposed.

He said he would answer in the yankee way by asking Mr. Mitchell why there were so many ad valorem rates in the McKinley bill? He went on to say that all legislation was compromise, and that there were senators on his side who believed in specific duties and senators who believed in ad visiorem duties. He admittes that the bill could not be passed unless concessions were made, and wound up by this figurative but expressive declaration:

"I say this bill does not suit me. I am replied to Mr. Allison's argument and con-

GENERAL BUTLER REVIEWS THE WAR

He Tells What He Would Do if He Were Governor, and How He Would Control the Situation.

Columbia, S. C., April 4 .- (Special.)-The strife is now over and the Capital City has sattled down to her normal condition after the intense strain of the last four days, incident to the dispensary tragedy. The only events of the day were the assembling of the constables, who were in the fracas and the conference between Governor Tillman and the committee of Darlington citizens. Temorrow the troops stationed at Darlington to enforce martial law will be ordered back and a proclamation restoring the civil status will probably be issued. It will then be left to the civil authorities to deal with those men in Darlington whom the governor intends to prosecute In accordance with the governor's order the dispensary constables connected with Frank E. Norment, the best-liked man in Darlington, was killed by Constable Mc-Lendon at the first fire last Friday. He was thirty-five years old.

the Darlington trouble turned up here today. They appeared on the streets and it was noticeable that they wore their badges on the outside instead of concealing them as heretofore, and there was no attempt to molest them. The missing son of Chief Gall-lard was on hand unhurt. The constables assembled at the state dispensary and Chief Gaillard reported at the governor's office for

Gaillard's Escape

Speaking about his experience Chief Galllard said that he had had a hard time. He looked worn and haggard, but appeared cool. He was very bitter in his denunciation of the opposition. He says that when the train he and Swan had jumped on to leave Darlington had got near the crossing he saw the crowd coming peamell as he was standing against the side of the rear door of the coach, the train moving slowly. It was just at this critical juncture that he heard the air brakes drop. He realized that a stoppage of the train meant certain other constables with him. he grasped the situation, says backed into the closet of the car. pulling out both pistols and cocking them, resolved to sell his life dearly. About this time, the engineer, seeing the crowd close on the train, opened the throttle and went across the crdossing at a speed of forty miles an hour, while bullets poured into the train from the weapons of the crowd. Swan states that the people who were pure suing them knew where they were hiding at one time, and that one of the pursuers came to them and endeavored to get them to surrender. This afternoon at 4:20, the whole force of constables who were at Darlington with the exception of J. Harding, left here for Darlington to attend the inquest. The following composed the crowd: Chief Constable Gaillard, W. P. Gaillard, L. H. McCants, C. B. McDonald, J. L. Nunnamaker, Wash Owens, J. S. Scott, W. H. Bryson, E. C. Beach, William Livingston, O. C. Cain, J. H. Felder, R. M. Garden, J. W. Holloway, J. C. Murphy, D. D. Padgett, J. T. Speed. Soldiers Go Home.

The committee from Darlington who conferred with the governor today included ex-Congressman Dargan, Mayor Dargan and Colonel W. C. Coker. They had a long consultation behind closed doors, and when they finished Governor Tillman gave out the following information concerning it: 'They came over here for a conference with me at my invitation. That is I asked Mr. Coker to come and the other gentlemen expressed a desire to come too. We have had a full talk over the situation in all its aspects, as a result of which I have instructed General Richbourg to prepare everything to bring the troops back over here on Friday. They will arrive here at 11 o'clock and the companies from the upcountry will go on through, while all the others will be distributed about the state on the first outgoing trains. I do not care to keep the force there any longer than is absolutely necessa ry. I have promised the committee nothing

y have promised me nothing. I have however, that if those men in Darwho have caused the trouble will nd their trial, I will let the civil law its course all the way through."

Calls Grosvenor a Crank. Concerning the resolution introduced in congress in regard to his stoppage of telerams, the governor said: "On, I don't care to notice every crank who offers a little resolution in congress. When congress takes some action, if it does, then there will be time for me to talk and I will have something to say."

The governor has ordered General Richbourg to appoint a military jury, composed of men selected from various parts of the state, not interested in the affair, to make up a statement of their opinion of the evice to be submitted to him for his personal information

GENERAL BUTLER'S REVIEW.

The Senator Tells What He Would Have Done.

Charleston, S. C., April 4.—Following is the full text of Senator Butler's statement made yesterday to a correspondent of The News and Courier touching the unhappy condition of affairs in South Carolina and work in Darlington county. It is a true re-

James C. Willcox, M.D., was chairman of the indignation meeting held on the first day that the constables made raids in Darlington. This meeting was the result of an announcement on the part of the constables that they would search private residences when they finished raiding the places of trade. Dr. Willcox has always opposed Tillman, and has been been a most ardent combatant of the dispensary law.

view of the whole trouble and is a sufficient answer to the misrepresentations made by Governor Tillman in his speech at Colum bia yesterday. Senator Butler said:

came down from Darlington this even Ing, where I have been the past twenty-four hours. As far as I could learn, everything is perfectly quiet. The civil authorities are prepared to discharge their duty. It seems that a number of state constables, or spies as they are called, had been in Darlington for the purpose of ascertaining if there was contraband whisky there. In the searches which they made they were supported by the mayor and civil authorities of Darlington, and there was not the slightest resistance to the enforceing, where I have been the past twentynot the slightest resistance to the enforce not the slightest resistance to the enforcement of the dispensary law. On the contrary the people of Darlington co-operated with the enforcement.

"This was prior to Thursday, March 29th. It appears that the force of constables, or spies, was increased on that day by a re-inforcement of about eighteen men armed with Winchester rifles and pistols. Why this reinforcement of armed men should be sent into a peacable, law-abiding community, where there had been no resistance to law, I cannot understand. It also appears that this armed band were about to retire that this armed band were about to retire from that community, where they had not been molested or dis_urbed, when a per-sonal difficulty arose between two young men at the railroad station where these

"The difficulty, from what I can learn, was an entirely personal matter between the parties engaged, and in no way connect-ed with the execution of the dispensary law. One of these armed constables, Mclaw. One of these armed constables, Mc-Lendon by name, interfered in this private difficulty. A citizen, Mr. F. E. Norment, at the depot on business, made some re-mark and there was an exchange of epi-thets between him and this constable, whereupon the constable opened fire on Mr. Norment, with the remark: 'God damn it, boys, let 'er roll.' The firing then be-came general between the armed consta-bles and the few persons who appear to and the few persons who appear to have been at the station by accident or on "The result of this firing was that two oung unoffending citizens were slain; one instable killed, and this man McLendon badly wounded; several other citizens were shot and the chief of police, who was trying to preserve order, several time

Pursuit of the Constables.

"The people of Darlington were naturally indignant at the extraordinary and vio'ent measures adopted by the authorities of the state, and, upon the information of this emeute at the station, they turned out and pursued the men who they rightfully thought had committed a wanton and unprovoked murder upon two of their best citizens. They pursued these men, I take it, as long as there was a prospect of arresting them and we must assume of bringing them to justice for what they considered an unprovoked homicide. As a proof of their conservatism, the wounded man McLendon, who had shot Mr. Norment, was taken to the jail and there projected from further injury, although the people of the town were greatly infuriated at his conduct. I think it may be safely asserted. resting them and we must assume of bringduct. I think it may be safely asserted that there is not a more law-abiding, in-telligent community anywhere in the United States than in the two counties of Parling-

"Now, it would seem to me that if I had been governor of the state of South Caro-lina, I would have felt it to be my duty upon being informed of the occurre upon being informed of the occurrences at Darlington, to have gone promptly to the scene of the disturbance and assured the people of that hitherto law-abiding community that they should have fair play. I think if Governor Tillman had done this think if Governor Tillman had done this matters could have been composed in twenty-four hours, and whoever should have been proven to be at fault would have been made amenable to the law. Instead of that he issued a proclamation denouncing the good people of these two counties as insurgents and insurrectionists, and ordered the military of the state to camp upon them.

"During my stay at Darlington I was deeply impressed with the anxiety of both the citizens and the military to keep within the limits of the law. I advised, as far as I had the right to advise, that under our form of government the military should be subordinated to the civil power, and the use of the military arm was only justifiable when the civil authority was proved to be nowthe civil authority was proved to be pow-erless and paralyzed. And, I think if Governor Tillman had, or would recognize this constitutional relation of the powers of our government, he would avoid many of the mistakes which he has made.

Two Ways to Execute Law.

"There are two ways to execute any law-the one by wisdom and conservatism and firmness; and the other by harshness, violence and an unreasoning disregard of the feelings of the citizens.

"I need not now express my opinion in regard to the dispensary law, but I may say that, in my judgment, the governor is attempting to enforce it in a harsh, violent and ill-advised manner. He ought to know feelings of the citizens.

ecution of this law, that the people outside of that city, less a constoned to the restraints of the municipal government, will quietly submit to his invasion of their rights, and it would be the part of prudence on his part to go slow in the rigid enforcement of an unpopular step.

"I would not be understood as encouraging, in the slightest degree, lawlessness or resistance in any form to lawful authorites. The people of Darlington and Florence, as a rule, have not resisted the lawful authority. There may be exceptional instances, as there are in every community, but they do not justify the wholesale denunciation which he seems to have put upon them. From what I observed in both of these counties, there has not been the least excuse or justification for ordering the military to these points. He has done so at an enormous expense to the taxpayers of the state, and, of course, he will have to look out for that.

"While in Darlington I advised, as far to look out for that.

"While in Darlington I advised, as far as I had the right to advise, that the friends of the deceased who were killed in the emeute at the railroad station, go before the trial justices, make affidavit charging the accused parties of the offense which they thought they were guilty of, demand the issuance of a warrant, let the same be placed in the hands of a duly authorized constable or citizen, and where the accused has fied the jurisdiction of a warrant, that it he sent to the shariff of warrant, that it be sent to the sheriff of warrant, that it be sent to the sheriff of the county where they are found, endorsed and served by him, so that the parties might be arrested according to law, and required to appear, give bond and answer to the charges in the due course of judicial administration. If resistance should be made to the constable of the trial justice and he should fall to make the arrest, he should be required to endorse such failure on the warrant, and then, and then only, the civil authorities should call on the military to act as a posse for the arrest of military to act as a posse for the arrest of Illegal Orders Should Not Be Obeyed "I see by the papers that Governor Tillman, in a note to Captain McCaughney, of the military company, has stated that the duty of soldiers—and the militia are soldiers—called into service is blind obedience to orders from their superiors, and not to queston them in any way.

"To my mind this proposition is simply monstrous, and is not true. No officer is bound to obey the order of his superior when the order issued is illegal. Nothing is better settled in military law than that. Suppose the governor had ordered Captain McCaughney to fire into a church filled with women and children; suppose he had ordered him to set fire to the town of Coordered him to set fire to the town of Co-lumbia; suppose he had ordered him to throw a railroad train full of innocent pas-theory he would have to obey; and yet if he had obeyed, Captain McCaughney and his whole company could have been arrested, tried, and, doubtless, convicted of murder or arson, or ncendiarism; and the or-der of the superior officer, the governor, would not have protected him. "This shows how wild, untenable and absurd is his proposition. I repeat, no officer can be compelled to carry out an unlawful order of his superior officers, and if he de clines to obey it the only penalty he in-curs is trial by court martial. I would not advise an officer or soldier in the military service of his state or elsewhere to acts of insubordination or disobedience of orders, but they are as amenable to law as other citizens and should never forget that they are subordinate to the civil power of the government. We have had a recent example of how sensitive the officers and soldiers of the army are, at Denver, Col., where General McCook, of the regular army, refused to interfere at the instance of Governor Waite saying that he was present with his troops as preservers of the peace and could not interfere with the civil powers are paralyzed. This, I think, would be afe rule for the military of this and all other sections.

"Governor Tillman has ruthlessly and wantonly insulted this gallant young officer of Newberry. There is and can be no justification for such cruelty. Captain McCaughney is a gentleman, and exercised the right which every soldier has of tendering his resignation rather than serve under a braggart or an incompetent superior officer. He has a right to exercise this privilege at all times, and the exercise of the right does not justify or excuse this wanton in-sult from his superior officer. I cannot comprehend what Governor Tillman means by his wild and reckless conduct. The think-ing people of this state, of all factions, are tired of dissensions and wrangling, and of his fire-alarm, pyrotechnic style of gov-ernment. It is having a bad effect upon the material and social interests of the state. It is making us an object of ridicule and a by-word with all enlightened, in-telligent people. We want repose, quiet, peace, order. And it will not do for him to say that these disturbances are brought about by an oligarchy, or an aristocracy or ring. He has had undisputed control of ever department of the government for nearly four years, and it is very strange that all of these disturbances and dissen-sions, and all of this wrangling and bloodshed should spring from his own adminis tration Something Radically Wrong. "Does it not argue that there is something rotten, radically wrong, in his administra-ton? The people of this state are not fel-ons or outlaws. As a rule, they are conservative and law-abiding people of all fac tions. In 1876 they arcse in their power and hurled from the administration of the state government officials who had brought disaster and sorrow upon the people. They are long suffering and patient, and he ought to and think. He ought to call around stop and think. He ought to call around him in council the most prudent and con-servative men of all factions. Nobody wants to thwart him in any honorable effort he may make for the general welfare of the people. He ought to know that he cannot run roughshod over the people or any part of the people of the state. He says he represents a majority. Does he mean to have it inferred from this that he will trample on the rights of the minority and ignore them? Is he prepared to admit that two or three or a dozen newspapers can prevent his doing justice to all the people

Will he say that the newspapers can drive him into extreme and resentful measures? I should be very sorry to see the governor of this state in that position "Why does he continue in his efforts to array class against class, country against tempting to enforce it in a harsh, violent and ill-advised manner. He ought to know that the Anglo-Saxon, particularly in our day and generation, will not submit beyond a certain point to be harried, repressed and pursued. The constitution of the United States and of the state guarantee the citizens against unreasonable searches and there is nothing in the dispensary law that I know of which justifies an invasion of this sacred right. Governor Tillman must not imagine, from the patience and submission of the people in the city of Charleston, where he seems to have practically unchallenged sway in the harsh extice, and, my word for it, all will be well.

"I see by the papers tonight that Governor Tillman proposes to issue a proclamation taking charge of the entire police force of the state. How can he have the effrontery to do this, when the last legislature, representatives of the people, refused to give him that power, I cannot understand. Why he should desire to destroy home rule and local self-government, the very foundation stone of our people's institutions, is equally surprising. He had better

MAYOR DARGAN'S STATEMENT. He Takes Issue with Tillman and Contradicts Him. Darlington, S. C., April 4.—Mayor Dargan has made another statement for publica-tion, this one in rejoinder to Governor Tili-man's speech. In the statement, the mayor

Says:

"The governor says, speaking of the constables, that they had been sent to Darlington because the mayor had allowed them to be insulted and cursed to their faces. If the governor was so informed that I, as mayor, had allowed that, his informant is just a liar. This is the first information I have ever received of such a fact. He says, again, two boys, mere striplings got into a fight, and some fifty striplings, got into a fight, and some fifty men, armed to the teeth, went to the depot and picked a quarrel with the con-stables, and men on both sides were killed.

"I don't know who informed him of this fact, but whoever did so just lied, and knew he lied when he gave such information. Again, he says the fault cannot be clearly placed, and possibly never will be "As to that, the governor is a very badly informed man, if he lays that flattering unction to his soul, and I venture the prediction that he will find the fault clearly placed, and that it will be found that the placed, and that it will be found that the constables simply did everything else but their duty. You will find I never said, as he states, that the governor had exercised power that no governor had ever attempted; but I say it now, and I think facts well known to the people of South Carolina bear out my statement; but what I did say was, that Governor Tillman assumes that his sples have privileges that are not enjoyed by any other citizens of this state, etc., and, I will add, privileges that even he does not enjoy. I notice that he asked etc., and, I will add, privileges that even he does not enjoy. I notice that he asked the question: 'Why did they not lynch the man they had in their power, who was admitted to be in the row?'

"I answer because we are not lynchers; we are not cut-throats nor robbers; we are south Carolinians, and fight a man as long as he is up, but we never hit the man that was the second that the second the second that was long as he is up, but we never hit the man that was the second that the second that was the second that the secon that is down. We don't fight that way, and that is the reason that man was not lynched. I know pretty well what Governor Tillman wanted us to do. I understand him very well. He is not the first politician I have seen. The governor would have liked our people in their rage to have murdered this man McLendon, who I am informed boasts of the fact that he has killed three other men. He would have killed three other men. He would have liked for us to have destroyed the dis-pensary, because then there would have been two facts which he could have pointed. to as a justification of his unprecedented course in this whole matter; but thank God our people are not that sort. They are made of different stuff from what he imagines, and we congratulate ourselves today that that man McLendon, who I am satisfied, it will be shown, brought on this bloodshed, having been shot down and thereby disabled from making his escape and thrown into our hands helpless, has been treated as all helpless men are, and as wounded enemies are, by civilized peor ple. This action stands out in startling and striking contrast to the action of his privileged state officers, who, it appears from the facts, shot the body of poor Frank Norment after he was down in four lifferent places with Winchester rifles and shot our chief of police in discharging his duty. This was enough to fire the blood and make even infant sinew as strong as

Dr. Payne, who killed the negro here today, is not a resident of South Carolina. His home is in Ohlo. He came here about two weeks ago as an agent for a life insurance company. He has retained counsel and has notified dicament. He is confined in the murder cell of the jail.

NOT MUCH TO SAY.

Charleston's Police Authorities Are Prepared to Yield Gracefully. Charleston, S. C., April 4 .- (Special.) - The nunicipal authorides here have very little to say concerning Governor Tillman's proclamation announcing his intention to take charge of the police force of all the cities and towns in the state. The proclamation created something of sensation, but was not unexpected in official circles.

It is considered scarcely likely that Governor Tillman's proclamation assuming control of the municipal police will in any event affect the present status of the police department in this city. Under the judicious direction of the mayor and chief of police, the state constables have been fully protected, and rendered every necessary sistance in making their raids on the blind tigers, whenever the department has been notified of their intentions.

So secure have they been in making their raids of late, and so devoid of any show or threat of resistance have been these occasions, that the constables had largely given over making requisitions for police escort, and most of their recent raids have been made without the attendance of the "blue coats." The police department has promptly anticipated and nipped in the bud every threat or symptom of rebellion.

Tillman Commended. Columbia, S. C., April 4.—(Special.)—The state conference of reformers was held here today. It was decided to hold a state convention of the reform faction on August 14th to select nominees for governor and lieu-tenant governor. This will be after the reg-alar democratic convention.

An address to the farmers was issued. Resolutions were adopted commending Governor Tillman's course in upholding law and order in the dispensary disturbance.

ANOTHER MURDER AT DARLINGTON. Spain Is in It Now if He Was Not

Before.

Darlington, S. C., April 4.—At the Cleve land house here today Dr. Spain shot and killed a negro cook, who had reported him as being one of those concerned in the dispensary transaction which caused the recent riots. Spain was at once arrested by a squad of soldiers, who were in charge of the hotel and then to police head-quarters. Everything is now quiet and there is apparently no danger of further trouble. Two companies or militia marched double quick from the camp, however, for the purpose of thoroughly policing the n foot for rapid transit. General Catchings introduced a bill in congress yesterday providing a charter for such a railroad.

Elsewhere Than on Georgia Soil. Washington, April 4.—(Special.)—From Washington to New York in two hours by an electrical railway is the latest scheme

The company, which is composed of Ham-ilton Disston and a dozen other wealthy capitalists, proposes to build an elevated bicycle railroad between Washington and New York, using the Brett system. The road structure and its supports are to be made of iron and steel of sufficient size and strength to permit the passage of cars at the rate of 120 miles an hour. Guard rails are to be on either side and every practical invention securing safety is to be adopted. The capital of the company is to be $15,-

The promoters of the company declare that the road will be built as soon as the charter is granted.

Which Would It Have Been. The other day when Speaker Crisp was tendered the senatorship by Governor Northen, and hesitated several hours be-fore giving an answer as to whether or not he would accept, an active canvass speakership to succeed him was begun. The friends of Judge Culberson and Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, were the most active. Had Speaker Crisp accepted the senatorship the race for the speakership would probably have settled down between these two men. Mr. Hatch is the best presiding officer, but Mr. Culberson is the most popular with the members. Both are free colinage men. None but a free colinage man would have stood any chance of election. Had Speaker Crisp resigned the race between these two men would have been an interesting one.

Representative Tarsney, of Missouri, who has been down in Mexico with Chairman Wilson, of the ways and means committee, during the latter's illness, has returned and reports Mr. Wilson's condition much im-proved. He says the tariff leader is practically a well man and will be here to take charge of the bill when it comes back to the house from the senate.

That time, however, may be several months. While the debate is now going on in the senate, it is already evident that it will be slow. The republicans are determined to throw every obstacle in the way of the rushing of this bill through that body, and it may be the first of June before the senate votes.

He is not only a fin de siecle private secretary, but he fairly scintillates in society. Indeed, he has developed into the social leader of the young circle frolicking about the edge of the cabinet. During this season he has led in the social festivities other than the ger-mans, but he is now thoroughly equipped to shine gracefully in that capacity. Indeed, Mr. Bennett has devoted much of his time recently to becoming perfect in the art of dancing. He has taken dancing lessons and now he can trip the light fantastic in a style that wins the admiration of the ladies and makes the young men of Washington society fairly turn green with envy.

Mr. Bennett was not an apt scholar at first in the terpsicorean art, but he struggled manfully with the "one, two, three and turn" night after night until he finally mastered it. Now he can dance the two step and do all the latest wrinkles in a saltatory function.

his comely secretary. The other night this hilarious pair had an audience of watchmen, and as they gazed wild-eyed upon the frolicking movements of the social aspirants, they might or might not have heard these love-lorn words gen-ly gurgling from the throat of the interior's graceful chieftain:

"My arm around your waist, dear love, Your little hand in mine, Your head upon my shoulder, love, As around in the waltz we twine.

And, by the way, speaking of Georgia political matters, gossip among Georgians here is to the effect that Secretary Hoke 3mith is very much disappointed at not being able to have his hand felt in either senatorial or gubernatorial contests in Georgia. It is said that he recently brought one of his most intimate friends and co-laborers in journalism from Georgia up here to arrange a deal by which a third candidate for governor could be brought out and defeat the present candidates. Mr. Smith wanted either Mr. Blount or some man closer to the administration's view of things than the present announced candidates. Under the advice of this friend, however, and in the face of the veto of the coinage bill, Mr. Smith decided not to take the chances of running out another man and having him defeated. Indeed, he feels now that he and his paper have their hands over-full in trying to explain that veto message to the people of Georgia.

Good for nothing

Yes, that describes how I feel. I have no energy left, nothing interests me. My strength has left me and I have no inclination to work.

No one would take me for the same person that I used to be. I look and feel forlorn and miserable.

My spirits are low, I feel despondent and I can't sleep at night. I am constipated and my digestion is out of order.

I feel almost hopeless, it seems to me that I shall never be strong again.

Cheer up, your case is far from being hopeless. You are suffering from general debility, your nerves need toning up, you lack vitality. The cure lies in enriching and purifying your blood and strengthening the system. You should take Brown's Iron Bitters. It will restore you to robust, perfect health. You will improve from the first bottle. This remedy is pleasant to take and is a very powerful strengthener. It does not stain the teeth. But get the genuine--see the crossed red lines on wrapper.

Wesleyan's Trustees Meet and Accept Dr. Dr. Brown-Sequard's Death Recalls His Mrs. Candler Gives Her Husband's Ver-Bass's Resignation.

MANY NAMED FOR THE POSITION

The Contractors Have Some Trouble in Getting Laborers to Work on the Sewers-The Baptist Convention.

Macon, Ga., April 4.—(Special.)—The trustees of Wesleyan Female college met in Macon this morning to consider the resignation of Rev. Dr. W. C. Bass as the lessee and president of the college and professor of metaphysics. Dr. Bass appeared before the board and asked that his resig-nation be accepted on account of his ill The trustees very reluctantly cepted it. It will take effect at the college commencement exercises next June.

For many years the college has been leased to Dr. Bass, he paying to the trustees the sum of $2,000 per annum. Dr. Bass engaged and pays the members of the faculty and pays the the other events. faculty and pays the the other expenses incident to the educational operations of the institution. A committee of trustees, of which Rev. Dr. J. O. A. Clark is chairman, was appointed to report on the fu-ture policy of the college and determine whether the lease system should continue whether the lease system should continue in vogue. The buildings and grounds are worth at least $300,000, and there is the Seney endowment fund of $50,000. The only debt against the college is $29,700 of outstanding bonds, which bear 7 per cent in-

At the meeting of the trustees this afternoon, the committee reported in favor of the continuance of the lease system, and that the president must be a Methodist preacher, and not a layman. The report was adopted.

The following names were put in nomination for president of Wesleyan: Dr. I. S. Hopkins, president of the stret technological school at Atlanta; President Warren A. Candler, of Emory; Dr. A. B. Jones, of Huntsville, Ala.; Rev. Claud L. Chilton, of Auburn, Ala.; Rev. J. W. Roberts, of Atlanta; Rev. Charles E. Dowman, of Cuthbert; Dr. A. Coke Smith, of Norfolk, Va.; Rev. G. J. Orr, of Dalton; Samuel Wier, of Evanston, Ill., and C. M. West, of Millersburg, Ky. It is not known if these last two are preachers. By resolution, these nominations will lie on the table for consideration until the meeting of the trustees at the commencement next June. Twenty-two trustees were present today.

Sewers and Strike. Work on Macon's system of sanitary sewers was commenced this morning by the contractors.

Several hundred negroes were present to go to work, but many of them refused to work at the price offered by the contractors—60 cents per day, and they tried to dissuade others from working at less than $1 per day. Chief of Police Butner dispersed the crowd of malcontents. About fifty commenced ditching along the line of the sewers up Poplar street. If they should insist on not working at 60 cents per day Gaboney & Noble intend to import laborers from Alabama, where, it is said, they can be obtained. the contractors.

The Baptist Convention. The Baptist Convention.

The second day's session of the Georgia State Baptist convention was more largely attended both by delegates and visitors than on yesterday. Before the regular proceedings of the convention commenced Rev. W. H. Whitsett, D.D., professor of church history in the Southern Baptist Theological serninary, at Louisville, delivered an address to the theological students of Mercer university. This morning at the convention Rev. Mr. Whitsett presented the work of the seminary. This seminary is one of the largest in the world, having nearly 300 theological students in attendance during the last session.

At the morning session reports were submitted on temperance, missions and kindred topics. One of the most important reports was that recommending that Hearn institute be taken out of the convention. This was adopted in a spirit of harmony. Chairmen of all standing committees were appointed.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon a reception was tendered the convention by une faculy and students of Mercer university. Addresses were made by President Gambrell, Dr. Gibson, Dr. Hawthorne and others. At 7 o'clock there was a mass meeting at the First Baptist church on foreign missions. Rev. Dr. R. J. Willingham, of Richmond. Va., secretary of the board of foreign mis-sions delivered an address. He is a son of Ben L. Willingham, of Macon. The convention will adjourn about Friday night.

Newsy Notes.

At the annual meeting of the Progress Club today the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Joseph Fried; vice president, Morris Harris; secretary and treasurer, E. Wachtel. A full board of governing committee was also elected. The reports rendered by the retiring officers showed the institution to be in a flourishing condition.

Experiments with Elixir.

DOES NOT KNOW HER HUSBAND

Brothers, but Both Deny Be-

New York, April 3 .- (Special Correspondence.)—The death of Dr. Brown-Sequard in Parls the other day has revived interest in his elixir of life. The doctor claimed that his remedy had restored the strength he enjoyed many years ago, and the New York physicians experimented with it a long time. At first great hopes were entertained, out after a fair trial our doctors came to the conclusion that Brown-Sequard was right in his theory, but had failed to get the right elixir. It will be recollected that the remedy consisted of the subcutaneous injection into the human body of the secrecretions of the giands of certain animals. Thousands of Americans have submitted to the treatment, but the results have been disappointing in most cases, although some claim to have been greatly benefited.

Local Politics. The republicans are making big predictions. They claim everything and say that they will sweep the state and carry the city. Or course they are greatly encouraged by the talk of thousands of discontented lemocrats who swear that they will not vote their party ticket. While there is litit or nothing in this growling and kicking, it must be admitted that it encourages the republicans to pull together and make preparations for an exceptionally vigorous campaign. Herein lies the real danger. Paul Daud has, at last, resigned from the park commission. He has found that a newspaper man cannot very well afford to hold public office. Horace Greeley tried it, and died in a madhouse. Erastus Brooks tried it and fizzled at both ends. Henry J. Raymond tried it, and retired from politics In disgust. Joseph Pulitzer was sent to con-gress by Dick Croker, but resigned before he had served half a session. Thomas Kinreua, of The Brooklyn Eagle, tried it, and confessed himself a failure. Whitelaw Reid tried it, and had to resign his journalistic baton to an assistant. Mr. Daud is a greater power in The Sun office than he would be in any public position.

Married to Whom? Mrs. Powers, a pretty young woman, is in trouble. She is married, but she does not know who her husband is. It happened in this way. She took a few drinks with John Powers and John Henry Powers, and then the party called on a strange minister who married the girl to John Powers, as she thought. After the bride sobered up she was told by John Powers that John Henry Powers was the man who married her. John Henry denied this vigorously and the minister was consulted. He recollected the marriage, but could not tell who was the groom. And so the matter stands. The poor woman is certainly married, but so ong as the Powers gang remain such continental liars, she will be without a husband. The two rascals should be sent to the penitentiary on general principles. JOHNSTON GAINS GROUND.

pale, determined little woman, with firm glance and sparkling eyes, puts quite a different color to the troubles of Dr. George H. Candler, who was arrested on a bench warrant from Marietta by the city detectives day before yesterday. The little woman who takes up the cudgel in the handsome English physician's behalf is his wife, and she gives a version of the difficulty that is spiced with lively incidents. She promises that a breezy sensa-tion will crop out of it in a few weeks.

Dr. Candler was not jailed at Marietta as it was supposed he would be, but succeeded in giving a bond and returned to his home at 54 North Forsyth street. Yesterday he was very ill all day and could not be seen. It was said that he was suffering from the excessive use of cocaine, but this Mrs. Candler denied. She said that he had used cocaine medicinally, but not to the extent reported. It was said that he was almost constantly under the influ-ence of the drug, and that he had used it to so great excess that he was not responsible for his actions.

Mrs. Candler says that Dr. Candler has been badly treated throughout. His only fault since coming to Atlanta has been his bad health, but she says he has been illy used.

Four months ago, for the benefit of his health, they went to reside at Roswell.

Previous to that time Dr. Candler had known Miss Pratt, who was connected with the Electropoise company, and when they went to Roswell they stopped at the Pratt mansion. The Pratt mansion is one of the lidest and many mansion in Page 1988. oldest and most palatial residences in Roswell.

Dr. Candler remained at Roswell for quite a while, but the relations between the families became strained and Miss Pratt asked him to move out. This he refused to do. Mrs. Candler says that he was much too ill at that time and did not do so. The situation was a very embarrassing one and Miss Pratt took decided steps to put an end to it. She had a writ of ejectment issued and placed in the hands of an officer. The officer, with an assistant, repaired to the mansion to eject the Candlers.

hands of an officer. The officer, with an assistant repaired to the mansion to eject the Candlers.

"Dr. Candler was in bed sick," said Mrs. Candler, "and I met them at the door and told them so. They wanted to put us out anyhow, and I just leveled my Winchester on them. I just held it on them and told them that if they came inside I would shoot them. And I would have done it, too. They didn't come in, but went off. For two weeks I kept them off like

"For two weeks I kept them off like that, meeting them with my winchester every time. I am not a poor shot. The rifle I had was mv husband's and is a sure shot. He won a cup with it."

With such incidents as this was the life of Dr. Candler marked while in Roswell. He is charged with having acted in a wild manner and doing some wild shooting at an imaginary foe. He is also said to have been flighty all the while he was living there.

Ing at an imaginary foe. He is also said to have been flighty all the while he was living there.

Mrs. Candler says that much has been said and printed about her husband that is not true. She says the Macon episode was unconscionably exaggerated. She says much that was not true got into the papers. She says that the arrest of her husband was the opening to a sensation, the nature of which she cannot tell yet. She says that the true cause of his arrest will develop later. Mrs. Candler is a most intelligent lady and is very sincere and earnest in everything she says.

Dr. Candler is quite a fine-looking physician of perhaps thirty-two. His face is smooth and his complexion as clear as a woman's. He is an Englishman by birth and was educated at the best English schools. He came to America several years ago and located in Buffalo. N. Y., where, besides attending to his professional duties, he was associated with the editorship of Sunday Truth. Later he was managing editor of The Times. He is said to have some property there now.

The Cuckoo Policy.

The manifestations of cuckooism in Georgia, though they cover a very narrow strip of territory, are such as must inevitably disgust right-minded people. We have an example of cuckooism in this neighborhood, and while it has been both instructive and amusing, recent events have given it a tone calculated to stir the gorge of men who are capable of thinking for themselves.

It is not often in this climate that the people are treated to such exhibitions as the one that has been on the cuckoo boards since the Bland seigniorage bill was sent to the senate from the house When that event occurred, and when the senate promptly made that measure the order of the day, the Atlanta Evening Cuckoo made a most violent attack on the democrats of the upper house. The Cuckoo declared that in placing the seigniorage bill before the tariff bill, which had not even been reported from the finance committee, the senate democrats were guilty of either ignorance or cupidity, or something of that sort. But the next day the wind had shifted. In a night the majority in the senate had become shining examples of patriotism and probity. They had splendidly euchred the republicans.

The same Cuckoo fluttered gently around the seigniorage bill, coold over it, and pronounced it good. It was a bill that should pass; it was a wise measure; and so forth and so on. 'The newspapers that print all the Washington gossip said that the secretary of the interior himself was loudly in favor of the bill, and that with his accustomed energy he was urging Mr. Cleveland to sign it. It was even said in those newspapers-and no denial has been made so far as we know-that the secretary declared that he would resign if Mr. Cleveland refused to sign the bill.

Meanwhile the secretary's Cuckoo was busily engaged in finding arguments in favor of the seigniorage bill, evidently Impressed with the idea that Mr. Cleveland would sign it rather than have any stormy scenes in his cabinet, followed by the resignations of some of the proud, stern men who make up the composite cabinet.

But Mr. Cleveland's veto message came. The Cuckoo folded its wings and sat drooping on the lowest perch. It had nothing to say; it did not know what to say. There seemed to be a crisis, and when a cuekoo sees a crisis it is compelled to wait for inspiration from the powers that pull the strings and give it an appearance of life and motion.

The inspiration came and the next day the secretary's Cuckoo praised Mr. Cleveland for vetoing the measure that it had been in favor of-the measure the secretary had urged. Its own convictions were given to the winds, and it endorsed with an affectionate and a trusting smile, the very arguments which it had striven to show had no weight whatever. A sorrier exhibition of cuckooism has never been paraded before the public, One day for a measure—the next against it; one day with convictions-the next surrendering them, and declaring that Mr. Cleveland's policy is superior to the democratic policy.

So with Governor Northen's appointment of Hon. Patrick Walsh to the vacant senatorship. The appointment was made at 10 o'clock in the morning, but the Cuckoo recorded the fact without comment. It was waiting for inspiration from Washington. The inspiration came and then the public was informed the day after that it was very "bad business" for the governor of Georgia to appoint a true democrat to the senatorial vacancy -a very "brd business" to appoint a democrat who stands squarely on the democratic platform. Of course the Cuckoo didn't say this right out. It couldn't afford to in this climate where the people set such store by democratic principles. But it came as near to saying it as a cuckoo ever comes to saying anything on its own responsibil-

It interprets the appointment of a platform democrat as factious opposition to Mr. Cleveland, and leaves it to be inferred that the policy of the president, although it may be entirely different from the policy of the party and the desires and expectations of the people, should commend itself to the support of democrats. And yet, everybody outside of the cuckoo nest knows that there is not a democrat in Georgia or in the south, of any shade of opinion, but would be glad to give Mr. Cleveland the heartlest and the most enthusiastic support if he would undertake to carry out the pledges and demands of the platform. There has never been in the history of the republic any president or any public man who has ever had as solid a support from the people as Mr. Cleveland would have if he stood as squarely on the democratic platform as he was supposed to stand when he was a candidate for the people's votes.

Nevertheless, the cuckoo here, cuckoo yonder, and Mr. Seifert's cuckoo in Macon talk through a long-distance telephone and all are industriously trying to convince the public that it is treason for a democrat to support the platform of the party instead of the policy of Mr. Cleveland.

It is the long-distance telephone that is doing the work. When it is "hello!" in Washington, it is "hello!" in Atlanta; and when it is "hello!" in New York, it is "hello!" in Macon. But there is this wide difference-Mr. Seifert's newspaper in Macon is capable of doing justice when it finds it has made a mistake, and in yesterday's issue it retracts it uncalled-for attack on the appointment of Mr. Walsh, and admits that its animadversions of the day before were baseless. But no one will ever hear a whisper from the cuckoo end of the long-distance telephone in Atlanta to the effect that it is better for the party to stick to demo cratic principles and unite on the democratic platform than to approve the policy of any man, be he president or private.

No More Delay!

Every member of the board of exposi tion directors should be present at the meeting this afternoon.

The minimum fund of $200,000 lacks only a few thousand dollars, and this small sum should be raised at ouce.

Our citizens have permitted the subscription to drag too long already, and there is no excuse for it. If we allow the weeks to roll by without completing the required amount, next fall will find us just where we started, with nothing accomplished.

Time presses, and there is work to be done. Not a lick will be struck until we raise the full amount of the minimum fund.

We believe the directors at their meetng this afternoon can take steps to close up the mafter. The few thousand dol lars needed should be raised in an hour Many citizens who have subscribed have not done justice either to themselves or to the exposition. They should be given a chance to supplement their subscriptions, and we believe that they will gladly do it. Others have subscribed nothing. although they are abundantly able. They will not refuse to come forward when the case is properly presented to them. If the Richmond and Danville employes could subscribe $500, the fire department $500, and the police $1,000, it will be difficult for others who have larger means to give a good reason for not subscribing.

The talk about the exposition has advertised Atlanta as she was never advertised before. It has done us a world of good, but it only faintly foreshadows what the exposition itself will do for

We must close up this matter. We cannot afford to lose another week, and we ought not to lose another day. This haggling over the small sum required to complete the minimum sum is hurting us, and it will cause outsiders to doubt our ability and determination. Let every director come out this afternoon.

And then raise the money!

Money talks!

"Enlightened Selfishness."

Editor Murat Halstead deplores in his wordy but not unattractive way the gradual formation of a great political combination that is now going on before his eyes-the unification, for purposes of economic strength and development, of the political forces of the south and

This unification, which was inevitable in the nature of things, has been hurried forward by recent events in legislation: by the coalition of the eastern democrats and republicans in congress as representing the common greed of the members of both parties in that section; by the refusal of this coalition to make any compromise whatever: by the establish ment of the sigle gold standard; and by the failure of the measure providing for the coinage of the silver seigniorage now lying idle in the treasury.

Given the coalition of eastern demo crats and republicans in behalf of the financial and commercial interests of that section it was inev. the that there should be a counter movement on the part of the west and the south, the sections whose interests are so unjustly discriminated against. The eastern coalition is the result of a well-defined scheme. The western and southern coalition which is slowly forming and growing, is the result of events and of the necessities that grow out of events that individuals have thus far had nothing to do with, except to note the movement and welcome it. Mr. Halstead observing this movement from his perch on the Brooklyn bridge, denounces it as sectionalism, and works himself into a frenzy over it. The trouble with Mr. Halstead is that he has arrived at that age when he can discern objects at a distance more clearly than he can see things right under his nose. He denounces the movement to unify the south and west as sectionalism-sectionalism as rank as that which divided the country in the sixtles. It is very clear to Mr. Halstead, but, owing to his defective vision, he cannot see any sectionalism in the conditions which have made the southern and western movement inevitable. Yet it should not be said that Mr. Halstead is not aware of these conditions nor that he is ignorant of the pressure and strain they have put on the patience of the people. He realizes that such conditions exist, but he cannot perceive, or he will not admit in the midst of his vociferations that they grow out of the sectionalism that is afoot at the east. He says with a smile that the successful efforts of the east to reap the benefits of all financial and tariff legislation are not in the nature of sectionalism, but are the result of "enlightened selfish-

This is a fine phrase, and we thank Mr. Halstead for thus parboiling the question for us. But what advantage have the victims of "enlightened selfishness" over the victims of the cruder sort? The re sult is practically the same, and the victims will not hesitate to escape from it if they can. And in this case they can if they want to.

But will Mr. Halstead tell us, while the subject is fresh in his mind, why the coalition of eastern interests that is now paramount at Washington is the result of more "enlightened selfishness" than the unification of the interests of the west and south which is now going forward?

The Vote on the Veto.

The vote in the house yesterday on the motion to pass the seigniorage bill over the president's veto shows in the most convincing manner the position of the democratic party on silver. Of the 144 votes in the affirmative, 118 were cast by democrats. The negative vote showed fifty-five democrats and fifty-nine republicans. With the republicans not voting. the democrats would have passed the bill over the veto. A bare half dozen southern democratic congressmen voted in the negative with the cuckoos and Tom Reed. All the other democratic votes in the negative were cast by members from the northern and middle states.

This vote surely sets at rest all questions as to the attitude of the democratic party on this phase of the financial question.

The southern and western representatives of the party stood together, while the minority of eastern democrats aided Tom Reed and his party in protecting the bond and gold interests and defeating the evident will of the true party of the people.

No one expected that the bill would be passed over Mr. Cleveland's veto. The cuckoos and the republicans could easily muster one-third of the membership. But the silver men determined to make a clean-cut record on this measure and by clever tactics brought the bill up and got a vote on it. The result was not unexpected. The bill is dead, but the position of the democratic party is clearly established.

A Defense of the Plutocrats.

The Constitution has from the very first treated with proper scorn the claim of certain plutocrais that an income tax cannot be collected because our rich men would commit wholesale perjury in order to evade the law.

Senator Voorhees takes precisely our view of this miserable plea. In his speech, last Monday, he said:

I confess that I am shocked to be assured now by gentlemen of great ability and high position that the principal property holders and income owners of the United States are defrauding the govrnment out of a small pittance, to blacken their souls with the detestable crime of false swearing, to render themselves fit as-sociates for thieves, housebreakers, forgers and cutthroats in the prison houses of the and to become everlasting inhabi tants of hell in the world to come

It remains to be seen whether the bondholders will thank the senator for his warm words in defense of their integrity. For some time past they have seemed very willing to leave the impression upon the public mind that they would perjure themselves rather than pay their just share of the taxes.

He Should Stop It

We are somewhat surprised to see the following covert attack on Senator Gordon in The Columbus Enquirer-Sun:

Democratic office holders and office seekers who are pandering to the free silve craze should remember the fate of the predecessors who swallowed the subtreasury theme as a bid for the alliance vote. The oottom will fall out of the free silver boom when the people become acquainted with the facts about it, and a sensol of would-be democratic leaders will drop out

It will be remembered that Senator Gordon before his election was a special advocate of a subtreasury scheme that equired, according to Hon. Thomas M. Norwood, a warehouse four miles wide and fifty miles long, on the seacoast, to hold Georgia's products, and on which the government was to issue 80 per cent of value, in money. Senator Gordon has certainly changed his mind since then. But if Editor Richardson persists in such insidious assaults, we are confident Senator Gordon will see to it that he gets no patronage.

One of the Many.

The average metropolitan journalist is a very ansafe authority, even in the commonest matters of history. Only the other day The New York Telegram contained the following statement:

Clean work hurts no man, and Napole afterward Napoleon III, was none the worse when in his days of poverty he applied for a place on the London police force. After he reached the throne of France, those memories of the old times gave him no pain and no regret. Now there is no excuse for such misinformation in regard to one of the most famous men of our own day and generation, and how the New York editor could accept such an idle story is a mystery. Here are the facts: Louis Napoleon was an exile in London at the time of the chartist agitation. Desperate mobs were dispersed by the military in various parts of the kingdom, and it was feared that there would be trouble in London. The best citizens came to the front and the sons of noblemen and the clubmen with whom the distinguished Frenchman associated volunteered their services and were sworn in as special constables. Louis Napoleon was among these friends of law and order, but it is utterly absurd to say that he ever applied for a position on the police force.

If necessity had driven him to it, he had the pluck and manhood to go to work, but while he was in straitened circumstances his loyal friends supplied him with money enough to enable him to make a good appearance and hold his own in society.

From time to time we see similar examples of misinformation cropping out n metropolitan journalism. Why it is that the average editor in our large cities is pretty well up in everything except history and biography is hard to understand. The newspaper man who studies these two branches of literature will gradually absorb all the information that he needs in his line of work, but if he neglects them his equipment will always remain fatally defective. A New York editor may say that it is more important to him to know Pat Divver's record than to know the story of Louis Napoleon's life. But why not know both? Nothing comes amiss in journalism-whether it concerns the slums or the highest court circle. Anything that interests mankind should interest a newspaper man.

Why Not Go to Work? It is to be hoped that Coxey and his army will abandon their programme of marching through the south after their visit to Washington.

Those political picnickers are not wanted down this way. Our people are too busy to waste time on the Coxey. crowd. In the south every man is a worker. Our farmers and mechanics have to hustle for a living. They do not tramp about the country under the pretense of making converts to their political faith, and they have too much re spect for law and order to go to Washington with the intention of overawing congress.

The best thing that Coxev and his followers can do is to go to work. Good. honest work, six days in the week, will do more than anything else to settle our problems.

But whether these tramping politicians go to work or not, we put them upon notice that they are not wanted among our busy people. We do not propose to feed them while they idle away their time in the sunny south. The cuckoo element is decidedly not having as much fun as it thought it would

The democratic platform it too big an affair to tuck under the bed at this stage of the game.

Having quit the platform for the sake of patronage the cuckoos claim that those who stand on it do so because they have not been invited to the slop barrel.

We are told that the cuckoo is a clean bird. The political cuckoo is clean, too, when it is dusted and polished, and the machinery greased so that it will respond when the string is pulled.

Democrats all over the country are applauding the appointment of Hon. Patrick Walsh to the senatorial vacancy.

SENATOR PATRICK WALSH.

A Broadside of Endorsements from

Every Quarter. Chicago Times: Governor Northen has appointed Patrick Walsh, owner and editor of The Augusta Chronicle, United States senator from Georgia for the unexpired term of the late Senator Colquitt. A better appointment could not have been made Mr Walsh is a man of the people, who etains in his prosperity his sympathy with the class from which he sprang. He sterling democrat, a true bimetallist, and man who will not flock with the cuckoos.

New York Sun: We congratulate the people of the country, and more especially those of the state of Georgia, on the appointment of the Hon. Patrick Walsh, Augusta, as a senator in congress, in the place made vacant by the death of Senator Colquitt. Mr. Walsh is a man of clear head wise judgment and unvarying courage and fidelity. The senate will be en-riched by his presence, and the value of its deliberations and its decisions will be notably enhanced. It is long since we have welcomed with such satisfaconfidence the appearance of any new man in either house of congress.

New Orleans Times-Democrat: Governor Northen could not have chosen a letter man. or one in whom his state and the entire south has greater confidence than "Pat"
Walsh. He is an honest man and an able one, who will go to the senate not as the representative of any corporation or privat interest, but to represent the people and act for them; and nothing will swerve him from his duty. Georgia and the south can feel sure that their interests will be well looked after by Mr. Walsh in the senate.

Baltimore Sun: The governor of Georgia has given another proof of his mod sense by the appointment of Colonel Patrick Walsh, of The Augusta Chronicle, as United States senator from that state to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Colquitt. Colonel Walsh is an able and progressive man, who has rendered his state and section great service by his per and his example, and he will prove a valuable addition to the senate. That body would keep much nearer to the people and to the principles of popular government if it numbered in its membership more representatives of elevated journalism Colonel Walsh has many friends in Balti will hear with pleasure of the honor that has been conferred upon him.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Governor Norther has done well in appointing Mr. Patrick Walsh, of The Augusta Chronicle, to be United States senator from Georgia in the place of Mr. Colquitt, deceased. The industrial question is now uppermost in southern affairs, and no man is better acquainted with the needs and resources the south than Mr. Walsh, nor is any man more able to make them known in the senate. The recent wonderful developme of manufactures and of agriculture in Georgia and the favorable estimation of that state as a field for the immigratio of capital and of skilled labor is due very to the liberal journalistic policy he late Henry Grady inaugurated and that Mr. Walsh so ably has carried out. In politics Mr. Walsh is democratic but of the Jeffersonian type of democracy democratic, He is not an Anglomaniac, nor is he of village school of political economists. He an abreast of the commercial progress of the century. We shall be surp if Mr. Walsh's votes are not such as Jefferson himself would approve.

New Orleans Picayune: Mr. Walsh is and successful conductor Augusta Chronicle, and he has ever wielded the influential newspaper to secure the material, moral and political advancement of Georgia. In that great state there was man more devoted in patriotism and public spirit, and, although he was a commanding force in politics, Mr. Walsh never sough and never would accept public office. The high dignity which has now come to him is a fitting recognition of his eminent se vices to his state, and the universal desir in Georgia is that he should ac Memphis Appeal-Avalanche: It were well for the south and the souther if more southern men like Mr. Walsh were occupying seats in both the house and the There are too many orators seach branch and not enough men of practi-cal affairs who are in close touch with the daily lives and ambitions of the people. "A gentleman came into our office Monday and, seeing a large picture of President Cleveland, he looked sour and said: 'A lady in Henry county had a picture just like that and put it in a handsome frame and hung it on the wall in the best roo of her happy home. The other day, who she read that he had vetoed the seigntoras silver bill she grabbed a broom and beat the picture from the wall, shattered the glass, jumped on it with both feet and then kicked the pieces into the fire."

TWO VIEWS OF TILLMAN.

One Sees Much to Commend, the Other to Condemn. Editor Constitution: Your editorial in your Sunday edition, commenting on the recent deplorable tragedy at Darlington, S. C., in which you commend Governor Tillman as a fearless, able and honest executive, is a fine article, and does him no more than justice. I think, however, you magnify the evils of what you are pleased to call the "spy" system, whereas, the state consta-bles are no more "sples" than are the police or detectives who are always recognized as a necessary and respectable adjunct of all well-regulated communities.

The recent terrible tragedy at Darlington and the lamentable loss of the lives of several of the most esteemed citizens of several or the most esteemed citizens of that city is the logical and direct result of the constant abuse of the state, governor and officials. No greater proof of this can be given than the remarkable action of some of the companies of the state militia in throwing down their arms when called on by the commander-in-chief to breaseve state. This incident will go down in history as the first instance, thank God, and I hope the last, when Carolinians refused to respond to the call of Carolina. They have been educated, deceived and duped into the belief that the citizens were wronged by the dispensary law, which is the best law on the statute books of South Carolina today. I regard the men slain, on Carolina today. I regard the men slain, both sides, as martyrs, the constables that they died with their boots on brave men doing their duty, and the gens because they knew not what twere doing, being so wrought up over sentimental and fatal fallacy about a manager being the coastle etc. One woo

If a man uses his "castle" to store contraband or stolen property, who cares how soon his "castle" is blown up with a popular. The humiliating and mortifying position of the disbanded es is a matter of greatest regret, and that they are beginning to realize a terrible mistake they have been making is evident from elaborate explanations now daily coming. The tragedy will strengthen Gov-ernor Tillman and perpetuate the dispensary law. GEORGE T. PRINGLE,

Editor Constitution: Now that things are again setfling down to a normal condition, and the state convicts are being relieved of the necessity of sharing their bed and board 'with South Carolina's militia thoughtful men begin to inquire the reason for so much warlike demonstration. Why the governor has so bravely "marched up the hill then down again." Why Columbia has been filled with traces. Columbia has been filled with troops, there has not been a fisticuff, and trains loaded with soldiers should be rush ed to Darlington when all had quieted down, and no such thing as an mob existed. It is apt to create t pression outside of the state that a very rave crisis existed, but, when the truth s told, there has been much more smoke than fire.

Since the days of Scott and Moses, the greatest curse that South Carolina has had to endure is Tillman.

His inordinate vanity leads him to at-

His arbitrary abuse of power has for some time past been, as leven at work, destroying his influence over those who, through abused confidence, elevated him into an office which he has never ceased to Then, it had come to a pass where ng must be done to again awaken bitterness which had formerly ed between the factions in the state, now on the wave, accordingly, the state is thrown into an uproar to aid the political fortunes of this pinch-back dic-

The refusal of most of the militia to obey the call meets with the approval of every man who loves liberty above the dictator of factional politics. Although it is the duty of a soldier to obey his commander's orders, God Almighty, in His wisdom, has planted in the heart of every man a principle which leads him to resist the will of any tyrant, be whom he may. is the principle which has made this try grand and great among the nations of the earth, and has made its flag respected upon every sea. Our state, today trodden under foot by the care more for petty office than the rights of their fellow men, will yet rise triumphant and show in the future, as she has in the past, "that the spirit of liherty is invincible.

The Way to Do It.

From The Butler, Ga., Herald. Atlanta puts before the citites of the south in its action upon the exposition to be held there next year an example which it will be very safe to follow in matters affecting their welfare. Our capital city decided it was necessary to raise $200,000 to make this projected exposition a success. The people went to work and in one day raised over $140,000! Needless to say the balance was raised without any trouble. The way it was done was by harmonious and enthusiastic action. The people of Atlanta are always a unit on every measure to promote the interests of their city. They are proud of Atlanta as no doubt is every true Georgian. Although not the largest, it is beyond question the best known city in the south and everywhere honored for push and energy of its people. No city has a prouder record, and its people are right in this determination never to allow an a prouder record, and its people unworthy page to be written in its history.

Hurrah for Atlanta!

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE, Editor Constitution: One of the proud boasts of the Atkinson people is that Mr. Atkinson has done so much for the party, and that General Evans has done nothing Mr. Atkinson has done good service as a democrat, as chairman of the committee he may have done some gratuitous work. He did work in the legislature, but he has been well paid for that. But when he insinuates that in all these years since the war General Evans has done nothing for his country, he forgets a great fact, and that is, that General Evans is a treacher. His whole life has been given to the service of his fellow men. His splendid service of four years in the war can never be forgotten by his countrymen. His personal example as a soldier, and his unfaultering courage and devotion to duty in every emergency, will live in the hearts of the people where there is one of them left who wore the gray. But I insist that no class of men are more constantly employed in doing good to their fellow men than preachers, and certainly none are paid less for their services. For years his salary was not sufficient to pay his expenses. He has been doing laborious service in behalf of the education of young men and the support of old preachers, and this service he has given gratuitously. His generous soul never grows weary, and his tender, loving heart has always been ready to respond to the cry of the distressed, and to speak a hopeful word to the struggling. General Evans is a Methodist; I am a Baptist. This letter

Editor Constitution: I desire to announce to my friends in the eastern part of the city that I shall move for a reconsideration of the ordinance that places a crematory on the corner of Gullatt street. Editor Constitution: Allow me space in your valuable paper to notify our mayor and general council that if they put the crematory they speak about in the third ward, the property, in my opinion, will be forever a total loss to the city as the cutraged citizens will not stand it. I am yours, very respectfully, C. P. JOHNSON.

The First Pianos.

The First Pianos.

From The Brooklyn Eagle.

The honor of inventing the piano is claimed by the English, French and Germans. Father Wood, an English monk at Rome, is said to have been the real inventor in 1711, and to have manufactured one which he sold to Samuel Crispi, the author of "Virginia," from whom it was purchased by Fulke Greville, though Count Carliclaims the credit for Bartholomeo Christofori, of Padua, during his stay in Florence, some three years later (1714). The French attribute the invention to a Parisian named Marius, who, they alleged, produced in 1716 a harpsiciford in which hammers had been substituted for the old piectrums or quills. The Germans are the last in the field, with J. C. Schroder, of Dreaden, who claimed (1717) when eighteen years of age to have constructed, after much consideration, the model of a new clavier, with hammers, upon which he could play loudly or softly.

Exposition Directors Are Called to Meet This Afternoon-They Want to Get Through with the Subscriptions.

An important meeting of the exposition board will be held at the exposition headquarters this afternoon.

It is urged that every member of the committee be present at this afternoon's meeting, for the business which will come up for consideration will be of great importance to the exposition movement.

For the past few days the work of securing additional subscriptions has been golng on quietly, an endeavor being made to tlese up the matter at once.

There is absolutely no reason for further delay. Every man who has not put his name on one of those subscription lists should see that it is there at once. Put it there today, so that the matter may be completed and no further time wasted upon this preliminary portion of the work. A good many people have telephoned to the newspapers and to the exposition office meir subscriptions, but have not yet signed an exposition list. It is highly important that they should do this and at once. It is only such subscriptions regularly signed which the committee named to supervise the lists can consider, and these should be signed at once so that there may be no

Congressman Maddox Talks. Congressman Maddex, of the Rome district, who was in the city a short while yesterday afternoon, in speaking about the exposition, said: "I find the people overywhere are interested in the progress, and I believe you will have no trouble in ac-curing substantial government aid. I be-lieve that the members from all the southern states will join the representatives of Georgia in the house and in the senate in endeavoring to secure such an appropriation as may be deemed necessary to carry out the purposes of this exposition. As I understand it, it is to be a great big, broad thing, not local at all, and is to be of direct benefit, not to Georgia alone but to the entire south. Yes, it will be more than that, for if it succeeds in bringing about closer commercial relations between this country and Mexico, Cuba and the countries farther south, it will be of interna-tional benefit and will, I believe, be of more benefit to the country in a commercial sense than the world's fair Certainly more than any other exposition the country has ever known except the world's fair. As for the benefits to Atlanta, Georgia and the entire south they are too manifest to require discussion. Yes, I think the exposition will be a great thing, and, of course, I shall do everything in my power to spend a few days.

WALKS AND TALKS.

Judge John Maddox, the able and popular longressman from the seventh district, was in the city yesterday afternoon for a short while on his way to Washington. After attending the funeral of his friend, Senator Colquitt, Judge Maddox went to his home to spend a few days.

"However much our people may be divided as to the governorship race," said he, "and you know they are divided, there is one thing certain, and that is they are practically a unit on the silver question. In my recollection there never has been a time when The Constitution so clearly reflected the sentiments of the people of Georgia and the south as the present. The repeal of the seignlorage bill was to very many the last straw to break the camel's back, as it were. The men who had upheld the administration in every act had upheld the administration in every act before that, believing, or at least hoping, that the administration would yet show some friendliness towards silver, were compelled to give up in despair after that veto One thing is perfectly plain, and that is the people of Georgia stand squarely in favor of the carrying out of the pledges which the party made in the last campaign. "Yes," continued Judge Maddox, "I was naturally glad to see Judge Crisp decline the senatorship at this time, for the na-tion needs him right where he is. If he wants to be senator the people of Georgia will give him that honor at any time he may desire it. The welfare of the party, however, depends very greatly upon his retaining the helm in the house; without him I fear there would be troublous times. The appointment of Pat Walsh pleased me very much. There is no cleverer fellow in the world than Pat Walsh. Nobody could be more unselfish than he is, and I am sure everybody in Georgia encorses the gover-nor's act."

Another prominent citizen of Rome who was here yesterday is Sheriff Jake Moore, who is one of the strongest political leaders in Floyd county. Speaking of the probabiliin Floyd county. Speaking of the probabilities in the legislative race from Floyd, Sheriff Moore said: "It is impossible this early to say who will be a candidate and who will not, except that Mr. Bryan can undoubtedly go back if he chooses to do so. He is one of the best men who ever lived and he has the faculty of drawing to his support not only the church people—for you support not only the church people—for you know he is a preacher—but also the boys. He is a great big-hearted man and nobody e'er went to him in trouble without being sure of assistance. Will Neal says we couldn't drag him into it again, as he has enough of the legislature. He is a very popular fellow and could doubtless be re-elected without trouble if he chose. Mr. Price, who was a member of the last house, will be a candidate, and so it is said will Mose Wright. Both are able and clever gentlemen. It is as I said, however, too early to say how things will go in that re-

The selection by the governor of Colonel im Dupree to be solicitor general of the Southwestern circuit, settles one thing, and that is the senatorial race in the thirteenth district. The next senator from that district will be Hon. W. H. Felton, who was a member of the last house and was chairman of the committee on general agricul-ture. Colonel Felton has been an an-mounced candidate for the position of senamounced candidate for the position of sena-tor, it being Macon county's turn, and it was thought probable that Colonel Dupree would also be in the race. Both are very strong and popular men and a contest be-tween them would have attracted attention throughout the entire state, but since Jim Dupree has been made solicitor general he will not, of course, oppose Colonel Felton, which will leave that gentleman with a walkover. He is a man of unquestionable ability, has had plenty of experience in legislation and will make a fine senator.

The governor yesterday appointed Hon. W. A. Huff to be trustee of the state lunatic asylum in place of Mr. J. W. Wilcox, resigned. The term extends until December 4 term.

appointment of Colonel Huff is an exceedingly good one, for no man in Georgia is better acquainted with the affairs of the different state institutions than is he. As trustee of the asylum he is very likely to get for that institution anything which, his opinion, it needs for the "old man" from Bibb is a power before the legislature from Bibb is a power before the legislature.

Mr. J. W. Newcombe, of Chicago, who was at the Aragon yesterday, is quite a prominent capitalist in the Windy City. He is on his way back north from a short stay in Florida.

"I have been greatly interested in your exposition movement," said he. "Such a movement in the south at this time seems most opportune. Your city here has been called the 'Chicago of the South.' From a Chicago man's standpoint that is quite a compliment and I can only say that if you get the Chicago clip and move on you you'll do a very great thing for Atlanta and for the south. It is just impossible to measure the good which such an exposition will do your city. If you hold such an exposition in the fall and winter of next year you will draw people from every part of the country here—that is, of course, if the railroads do their part. They have it in their power to make or mar the enterprise. If they give low rates the people will come from all parts of the country. The people of the north will be glad of an opportunity to come south. Let me tell you this, that if the railroads of the south had been as enterprising as the railroads of the west have been this territory down here would have twice the population it has. I have been pretty well through the south and I have been this territory down here would have twice the population it has. I have been pretty well through the south and I tell you my eyes have been opened. You have every reason to expect a steady, if not a rapid, growth in all of these southern states, and especially in Georgia and ern states, and especially in Georgia and Tennessee. As for that exposition, you get up the show, let the railroads do their part and the people will come."

Mr. J. M. Beach, of Columbus, O., was at the Kimball for a few hours yesterday and in the course of a talk with some Atlanta friends expressed very pointed views concerning the South Carolina war.

"That man Tillman," said he, "is a man after my own heart. He is not a stripe of cerning the South Carolina war.

"That man Tillman," said he, "is a man after my own heart. He is got a stripe of old Andrew Jackson about him that I can't help liking. He's a governor and no mistake. I don't believe the newspapers of the country have done him justice, though it is not the fault of the papers, but of the men who represent them in Carolina. The governor's position has been simply that, as chief executive of the state, it was his duty to see that the laws were carried out. It seems to me in doing that he has acted in accordance not only with the letter, but with the spirit, of the law of his state and he has done nothing which he had not a right to do. He is a man of nerve, and everybody admires nerve. I'm glad he whipped his fight."

And very many others will endorse this view of the case.

Mr. T. L. Farmer, one of the leading merchants of Fort Gaines, is in the city, and will remain here several days. Mr. Farmer is one of the most progressive and successful young men of his section of the state, and always keeps his weather eye on the political situation. Speaking of the gubernatorial campaign yesterday he said:

"General Evans is away ahead, and is gaining every day. He will come under the wire winner with distance to spare."

General Evans is away ahead, and is gaining every day. He will come under the wire winner with distance to spare."

Colonel R. F. Maddox has returned from a business trip to New York. He stopped a few days in Washington, and was there during the excitement incident to the death of Senator Colquitt and the veto of the seigniorage Jill. He did not call on the president, but talked to several members of congress on the subject of the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state issues. Colonel Maddox is enthus.astic on this subject, and says that it will relieve the pressure. He says he saw Mr. Hoke Smith and talked with him on the subject, and that Mr. Smith assured him that President Cleveland favors the repeal of the 10 per cent tax. In fact, he says Mr. Cleveland had more to do with putting it in the platform than Mr. Garrard did, and that he knows Mr. Cleveland favors the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state banks.

Colonel Maddox asked Mr. Smith why the president had not said something about it in some of his messages. Mr. Smith replied that the time had not come yet, but that he was satisfied from his talk with the president that he would have a message on the subject shortly.

Following is an interview with Colonel Maddox, taken from The Washington Post, on the subject:

"One of the most influential citizens and solid business men of Atlanta, Colonel Robert F. Maddox, president of the Maddox, taken from The Washington Post, on the subject:

"One of the most influential citizens and solid business men of Atlanta, Colonel Robert F. Maddox, president of the Maddox was sought out by a Post reporter and solicited for an expression of opinion on the general financial condition of his section.

"For many years of my life," said he, including a period before the war, I have been engaged in the banking business, and have made it my special study. It is my earnest conviction that if congress wants to do something that will be of real and lasting benefit to the country it should speedily pass a bill repealing the 10 per war was as good as the bank of Louislana and never did the state banks of Louislana or South Carolina suspend specie payments.

"I am not wedded to any particular scheme, but there is wisdom enough in the legislature of a state to devise a good banking system. State and county bonds are a first-rate basis on which to issue money. In the old days, it was thought sufficiently safe to issue three paper dollars on one of gold or silver, but the ratio could be made even less so as to beget absolute confidence. If this tax is repealed, I am satisfied that the country will enter a new era of prosperity. It is the one thing needed to relieve the decreasion that is caused by the congestion of money in a few large cities. More than that, the establishment of state banks would forever dilminate the troublesome silver question. In six months after the passage of such a law, all wrangling over the white metal would cease. The very best stroke of statesmanship for the democrats is to repeal that tax."

Realistic drama is what the play-goers will have for three days at the Edgewood Avenue theater next week, when "The Midnight Alarm" will begin an engagement at popular prices. The company will open on Monday night and give a special matinee on Wednesday, when tickets will be placed on sa.e at 25 cents to all parts of the house. This company has been playing at regular prices, and Atlanta is the first city to have the benefit of the reduction.

Meeting of the Rate Committee of the Passenger Association.

VERY LOW RATES TO DALLAS, TEXAS

Other Religious Rallies Get Cheap Rates Boycott Declared by Commissioner Stahlman-Other News.

The meeting of the rate committee of the Southern Passenger Association, held in the biffice of the commissioner yesterday, was one of the most important the association has held for a long time.

A full attendance was present when Commissioner Slaughter called the meeting to order, and the members went at once to work.

One of the first things considered was the convention of the Southern Baptist Association, which is to be held in Dallas, Association, which is to be held in Dallas, Tex., this year. The commissioner reconsidered his former action on the rates to this convention, and decided to make it one fare for the round trip.

This is a much more favorable rate than the one formerly agreed upon, and the attendance to the convention will be much larger in consequence.

Of course, this action had its effect upon the requests for cheap rates to other religious conventions, and the association acted upon them with similar effect. They gave the same rate to several conven-

The same rate was also allowed to the Christian Endeavor convention, to be held in Cleveland, O.

Special rates were allowed to the Knights of Pythias conclave at Washington, it being one fare for the round trip, plus $2.

Special rates were allowed to the Travelers' Protective Association at Albany, Ore, it being one fare for the round trip.

The same rate that is now allowed the mid-winter exposition at San Francisco was given to the general Presbyterian convention in Albany, ore, the convention to be held May 23d.

Today's session will begin promptly at 10 o'clock, and there will be much important business to come up for the consideration of the members.

The Populists' Convention.

The Populists' Convention at the meeting yesterday granted cheap rates to the convention of the populists of Georg's to be held on the 16th of next month.

This convention promises to be one of

to the convention of the populates of George's to be held on the 16th of next month.

This convention promises to be one of great importance to the people's party of this state, and certainly will be one of much interest to the general public.

The purpose of the convention is to select candidates for governor to be placed in the field against the democratic nominee. There is all manner of gossip concerning the convention, and the probable candidate to be selected to run on the gubernatorial ticket. It is said that Colonel W. L. Peek, who was in the race for the populists last time wants to be chosen as the candidate this year also, but there seems to be some opposition to him among certain prominent members of the party who will have a hand in shaping its destinies in the coming campaign.

A great many of the leaders favor Tom Watson as the candidate for the people's party to put in the field against the democratic nominee, but as he has announced that he will run for no office this term it is doubtful whether or not he will be the man.
The convention will doubtless be largely attended owing to the cheap rates that have been allowed by the Southern Passenger Association. It seldom occurs that the railficient guarantee that the people's party will have a great many delegates to come to Atlanta on the 16th of May.

A Boycott Is Declared. Commissioner Stahlman, of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association has served notice upon the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern that that road will be boycotted by the members of the association for cutting rates against lines that are members.

The boycott has already taken effect, due to the fact that the road has been giving lower rates than any member of the asso-ciation could give, according to the agree-ment. The Chesapeake, Ohio and South-western has been allowed the pro-rating privileges of the association heretofore, but will be cut off from such enjoyment hereafter.

Commissioner Stahlman was seen and asked about the transaction yesterday by a Constitution reporter. "Yes, I have declared a boycott against the line," he said, "and that isn't all. If several other lines we have been allowing privileges to fall to stop this cutting of rates there will be some more boycotting.

"If the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery continues to cut rates against memwill be cut off from such enjoyment here-more boycotting.

"If the Savannah, Americus and Montgomery continues to cut rates against members of our road on cotton, we are going to declare a boycott against that line, too."

It seems that the roads ouside of the association are allowed to pro-rate freights with the roads in the association, at the rates that the latter roads get, but when these outside roads begin to cut against the lines in the association, the association has the right to cut off the reduced rates from it and charge full local rates to points over its lines.

This amounts to the same thing as a boycott as long as there is another line in the neighborhood that can carry the freight at the pro-rating figures.

The commissioner is very determined about the business and says that the roads shall not be cutting rates against the lines that are bound up in the association.

The situation is interesting and the result of the boycott against the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern is watched with much anxiety and concern.

Railroad Gossip.

Colonel C. P. Atmore, general passenger agent of the Louisville and Nashville, is in the city.

Captain Ed L. Tyler, general manager of the Atianta and West Point, is out of the city. He is on a trip to Montgomery to look into the affairs of his line.

Mr. Madison, secretary of the associated railways of the Carolinas and Virginia, is in the city attending the meeting of the Southern Passenger Association.

Mr. J. M. Cutler, general southern agent of the Evansville route, is a warm and enthusiastic endorser of the scheme to turn the tide of immigration this way. He says that his lines will certainly hail with delight such a movement and will join the railroads of the south in building up the towns and the country all along the Mississippi valley and throughout the Piedmont region. Mr. Cutler has lately removed his office to the Equitable building and is now in immediate touch with all the general offices of Atlanta roads.

The meeting of the Southern Railway and Steamship Association to be held in Atlanta in May, will be the most important of the whole lifetime of the association, it being the time for the question to come up whether or not the association will last another season or not. It is said that the agreement will be re-entered by all the roads that now form the association and that it will be perpetuated. Commissioner Stahlman has said that he will resign the commissionership of the association if the members do not decide to make it more perfect in its power of usefulness.

The other girls who looked lovely at this cotilion were numberless. Indeed I never saw a set of girls look handsomer or in a merrier mood than this one. Many fresh, cherming freeks were worn.

Miss Pratt in a pretty diaphanous white toilet attracked no end of attention. She is such an aristocratic, well poised young pink satin trimmed with a touch of pink velvet and made in that elegant simple fashion which is most flattering to the rounded grace of her faultless figure.

Miss Annie May Hall looked like a figure from "Vogue" in a smart white organdle made over white moire and a big black velvet Alsatian bow on her finely-poised blonde head.

Miss Ethel Toy, always strikingly stylish, was bewitchingly pretty in rose-colored or-gandie over silk. The gown had the char-acteristic smartness of all her frocks. Miss Margaret Newman was radiently lovely in that silvery shade of blue satin which is peculiarly becoming to glowing Miss Emily English was dainty and patrician looking in pale pink mousseline de soie over satin.

Miss Minnie Cabaniss was a charming petite figure in a soft pale pink gown with a touch here and there of apple green velvet. Miss Saida Williams wore a lovely young girl's gown of white tulle most becoming to her bright, attractive face and pretty figure.

Miss Letitia Scott was handsome and distinguished looking in pale pink mousse-line de soie over pink satin. Miss Louise Bigby looked most brilliant in white organdie and blue ribbons, and carried two enormous bouquets of Eas-ter lilles and pink roses. Mrs. Glenn was very handsome in an elegant French toilet of apple green and black, with a cluster of carnations in the laces of her bodice and a knot of the same flowers in her dark hair.

Mrs. Clarence Knowles was, as she is always, a charming and perfectly gowned woman. Her toilet was a soft black crepe, with little splashes of turquoise and turquoise bule velvet trimming on the bodice. Mrs. Hugh Hagan was regal in pale yellow satin brocade, with a garniture of car-nations about the neck of the bodice. Mrs. Leary was a sweetly pretty picture me to describe. It was, altogether, a per-fect entertainment.

Miss Spencer is having any amount of at-tention here during her stay with Miss Glenn, and she undoubtedly deserves all the flattering devotion rendered her. She is not only an unusually pretty girl, but a magnetic one as well. Her face invites interest, as well as admiration. There are charming little curves show here here are charming little curves about her lips and her ever changing expression denotes that delightful quality of interest in others and appreciation of their cleverness. There is nothing so enchanting in woman or man as this quality of appreciation. It wins more lovers and friends than any other gift, and it makes a girl remembered for her own self's sake long after her witty speeches, and even the distinct shades of her eyes and hair are forgotten.

Miss Saida Gordon Williams left yester-day afternoon for New York to spend a few weeks with her aunt, Mrs. J. W. Wool-folk.

Mrs. Fred Scott will entertain a number of little folks this afternoon in honor of her little family of boys and girls.

A beautiful birthday party was that to which Master Wicking tooldsmith invited a number of his boy and girl friends yesterday afternoon. The chluren had a merry time playing games and dancing and delicious refreshments were beautifully served at the long table in the handsome anning room. This was decorated with bright ficwers and ladened with all the dainty cakes, fruits and confections that children leve. At each plate poppers were placed and the pulling of these brought forth all sorts of eay caps, which, when donned, made the little party look like a fancy-dress afair. Master Wickliffe received any number of lovely presents from the little friends whom he entertained with such grace and elegance. About thirty children were present.

The mock trial which is to be given on next Monday evening at the Grand opera house is causing no little interest and comment among society folks and the night will be one of the most brilliant in a social way of any ever known at the Grand. There are so many clever young lawyers and newspaper men who are to take part in the affair, and all their friends are deeply interested in seeing how they will acquit themselves. Of course, it is a foregone conclusion that they will be delightfully amusing in their various roles, and each will lend to his part an individuality of wit and intellect that has already made him marked in his profession.

Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie's last song, "Dream Bells," is attracting a great deal of attention, both by the charm of its musid and the graceful and tender enchantment of its words. The music as well as the poem was composed by Mrs. Loilie Belle Wylie and both do her great credit.

To Hear the Superb Musical Programme Arranged by the Orpheus Glee Club-A Rich Treat in Store.

The magnificent musical programme which will be rendered at the Grand this evening will draw to that place one of the largest audiences of the season. The occasion is the grand musical festival, about which so much has been said and written, given under the auspices of the enterprising and wide-awake Orpheus Glee Club. Dr. J W. Bischoff, of Washington, D. C., comes to assist in rendering this programme and wide-awake Orpheus Glee Club. Dr. J W. Bischoff, of Washington, D. C., comes to assist in rendering this programme and brings with him a quartet, whose wonderful voices have charmed many an audience. Dr. Bischoff is a musician whose fame is undisputed and the influence he exerts over an audience when playing on the pipe organ, is reported to be marvelous. It is not amiss to mention again the enterprise of the Orpheus Glee Club in undertaking to bring to Atlanta, at a very heavy expense, such noted and talented musicians, and the large audience that will be present to greet the visitors, as already indicated by the advance sale of tickets, will be a nice compliment to the Orpheus Glee Club and one that is highly deserved. Let us urge upon all the music-loving people of Atlanta, who have not secured tickets, to do so at once and avail themselves of this rare opportunity. On the night following the concert at the Grand, the club will, with the assistance of Dr. Bischoff and quartet give a grand sacred concert, the programme of which is by no means less interesting and by some thought to be superior to the one at the Grand. The Second Baptist church, where this concert will be given, will also be filled with the people of Atlanta anxious to hear the master of the pipe organ. The tickets on sale at George Muse Clothing Company, Lumpkin, Cole & Stewart, S. W. Day, Phillips & Crew Music Company, Miles & Stiff, arg 50 cents each or 75 cents for both concerts.

The Capital City Guards' Fair to Be

Prolonged Another Week. The Capital City Guards' fair is a verifica-tion of the truth of the statement that noth-ing succeeds like success. Such a good time has been afforded to the pleasure-seekers of the city for the past ten days that it has been decided to run the fair for another week after Saturday. The remainder of the present week will be full of interesting features. Last night the Atlanta Artillery held forth, and to-morrow evening the Atlanta Zouaves, in full dress uniform will make their second visit in a body to the fair. The Zouaves will be accompanied by the Marietta Ri-will be accompanied by the Marietta Rifies.

The programme for Friday evening will be marked by the presence of the confederate veterans, in charge of General C. A. Evans, and the O. M. Mitchel post of the Grand Army of the Republic, under command of Mr. L. D. Nelson.

The most popular adjunct to the fair is the restaurant. This is in charge, as usual, of Mrs. Brittain, who knows well how to serve a delictious supper. The menu last evening was perhaps the best offered since the inception of the fair.

Captain Hewitt, of the Capital City Guards, was saying that all the officers of his regiment would be in Atlanta tomorrow morning to attend the regular monthly meeting of the officers of that regiment. In the evening the entire staff will visit the fair in a body.

The proceeds arising out of the entertainment will be devoted to the procurement of additional uniforms for the members of the Capital City Guards. A handsome sum has already been realized.

Seeking for and recording ignorance and falsehood is irksome. We leave it to the Public. It would be better for all concerned if the Public would more faithfully discharge the task.

Fake bargains are rampant-worse in other cities, but bad enough in Atlanta. The keen scrutiny which we apply to our own business keeps us constantly alert upon the market. While we never hunt for prevarication we meet it frequently and we know a trade deception on sight. Wise buyers discriminate nicely.

THE CHICAGO MARKET VERY ACTIVE

With Wheat 25-8c Higher and the Entire List Higher in Proportion-Cotton Closes About Unchanged.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Business at the stock exchange today was quiet. After a fairly steady opening the market was weaknened by a drop in General Electric to 40, a loss of 1% per cent compared with the closing of yesterday. This stock continued weak throughout the day, and in the last half hour of business touched 38%, nearly 20,000 shares having changed hands. The annual report was not considered favorable and there was a steady supply of the stock from start to finish. To put it mildly, the statement was a surprise to the street, and the professionals were not slow to discover liquidation and to take advantage of the selling. Distillers and Cattle Feeding advanced fractionally at the start, but later receded to 26%, a loss of 1% per cent, on street rumors that the case now being tried before Judge Gibson will be decided against the company. Chicago Gas was depressed from 64% to 62%, the election at Chicago having been considered unfavorable to the company. Missouri Pacific was again active at 31@32@30%. Delaware and Hudson rose from 139% to 143%. The advance in the latter was attributed to purchases by contending interests in the matter of the new stock issue. Stockholders are to act on the matter May 8th. One division of the board of directors favors issuing the new stock at 75 and the other at 100. NEW YORK, March 4.—Stocks were feverish and irregular in the closing hour and liquidating was in full swing in General Electric and Distilling and Cattle Feeding. Room traders and Cammack brokers hammered General Electric on lack of support from inside interests. There was a good covering demand in Chicago Gas and St. Paul, both stocks having been largely oversold during the early morning raid. Missouri Pacific was held well in hand by Gould brokers and room shorts hesitated to put out fresh lines. The feature of the closing dealings was the rapid advance in Delaware and Hudson, presumably on a renewal of the talk of a sharp contest at the annual election with a view of retiring some members of the Vanderbilts. The stock was in demand in the loan market and flat was bid for the use of 2,500 shares and none offered less than 1-122 premium.

It is probable, however, that such a measure would result in a long debate, and the agitation of the subject might depress agitation of the subject anyway. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager. NEW YORK, April 4.—While Liverpool lost 2-64d today, our market has practically been unchanged, because, while there may be no particularly builtish features that have developed, there is at the same time a gradual disappearance of bearish ones. We do know that from this time forward there will be a gradual reduction in the world's visible supply, especially at Liverpool, where spot sales continue daily 12,000 bales, and there is a continue daily 12,000 bales, and there is an improvement in the demand from northern spinners and this will doubtless continue as long as there is an improved demand for the maufactured article. Our New Orleans firm is making considerable effort to obtain from all the cotton states some information as regards the probable acreage the coming season, and so far Texas indicates a much smaller increase than reports generally have credited that state with. Replies from the other states are not yet sufficently numerous to be able to give figures of any value. One thing, however, is that the southern farmer is going extensively into the raising of his own meat and this naturally entails a more extended cultivation of corn and perhaps taking up of some of the area heretofore devoted to cotton. The difficulty of sustaining improvements comes largely from the fact that some disturbing cause develops generally after an advance to induce selling by those who have bought and thus up to this time, no very considerable improvement has taken place from the lowest point touched in March. Our information is that sixty-five towns in Texas, in fifty-seven counties, show stocks of 19,800 against 44,100 last year. What the south must realize is that the control of the price of cotton is very largely, if not almost entirely, in the hands of the European consumer and what the consumer Atwood Violett & Co's, Cotton Letter.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Circular.

NEW YORK, April 4.—(Special.)—This was a rather dull day in cotton. The bull and bear influences seemed about evenly matched. Liverpool sent in a small decline, but the effect of this was offset by a good advance in the price of silver in London. There was little change at the opening from yesterday's closing prices, the first sales of May being at 7.62. Within ten minutes the market had stiffened and 7.64 was bid for May. But the firmness was only momentary, and a little later May had declined to 7.61, and was offered at that price. The market fluctuated luggishly for the rest of the day, between 7.61 and 7.63. The close was quiet and steady with 7.62 bil for May. They buying for American spinners continues and prevents any serious decline, while the shadow of a new and bigger crop and fear of the Hatch bill seem to bar the way to a further advance. The situation is likely to change for the better or for the worse any day. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Circular.

Hubbard, Price & Co.

NEW YORK, March 4.—(Special.)—Summary of Hubbard, Price & Co.'s exton letter: The trade is proceeding in such a lively rate in England that spinoers continue to take their daily consumption of cotton in Liverpool, the sales amounting to 12,000 bales today with the spot market called firm. The arrival market is slightly lower at the close of business than the opening quotations, the net deceine of the day being about 2-64d in response to our failure to improve yesterday. The temper of the market here is bearish, based upon the apparent lack of speculation and the advices received from the south of increased acreage and a disposition on the part of southern holders to part with their remnant of the crop. In spite, however, of this disposition to anticipate a further decline the market remains very steady and those who have faith in cotton are encouraged by the accounts received from the manufacturing centers of the opening of mills in every direction. It becomes daily more evident that the improvement in trade which many thought would disappear with the end of March, has come to stay, and while it may be slow, the consumption of cotton in America is increasing daily. The market closes quiet and steady with little change from yesterday's prices. Fluctuations during the day have been within very narrow' limits.

The Sun's Cotton Review. Hubbard, Price & Co.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, April 4.—The Sun in its review of today's cotton market says: "Cotton advanced 1 to 2 points, but lost this, and declined 1 to 22 points; sales 67,400. Liverpool declined 1 to 2½ points, closing quiet; spot sales 12,000 at firm and unchanged prices. Manchester quiet. At Boston cotton was dull. The rainfall in the south was light. The river was rising at New Orleans, but at other points it was falling. The receipts at the ports were 5,850, against 6,308 this day last week, and 5,973 last year. Thus far this week 30,362, against 29,251 the same time last week. New Orleans advanced 1 to 2 points. Memphis receipts were 148, against 112 this day last week and 391 last year. Shipments today 2,255. St. Louis receipts 50, against 287 last week and none last year; shipments today 3,195. There will be no strike at Full River in the King Philip mills, thaugh wages will be lowered. Spot cotton in New York was steady, but quiet; sales 136 for spinning; delivered on contract 100. Southern spot markets were generally steady or firm at unchanged prices. Augusta advanced 11-16c. New Orleans sold 300 and closed easy at unchanged prices. Memphis sold 1,950, St. Louis 1,400, Galveston 708, Savannah 500, Augusta 377, Mobile and Norfolk 297. New Orleans receipts tomorrow were estimated at 2,000, against 3,350 on the same day last week and 2,222 last year. Silver in London advanced 4d and here 4c. Stocks at twelve of the most prominent interior points last night were 216,852 bales, against 297,499 last year. It was a drowsy speculation, there is no doubt about that; the market was practically a slop all day. It advanced slightly at first because Liverpool was not so bad as had been expected. Prices dropped a little, however, on local selling. The Hatch bill is feared. It was to come up in the house today or tomorrow. A few April notices were circulated. Some got out of April and took later months. There was less snap in the spot trade in this country. Liverpool ended at quite a little decline, still the market there was active. Silver was again higher; the cotton crop movement in this country was moderate."

The Manchester Review.

MANCHESTER, April 4.—The Guardian, in its commercial articles, says: "The volume of business has been small and but few offers have been presented. Those eager to sell are prepared to consider definite bids, but the offers from abroad have mostly been unworthy of consideration and the sellers are firm. An increase in the rate of China exchange is expected to lead to an increase in buying, but their offers contemplate payment in silver, the price of which has declined to a point below the compensating increase in the rate of exchange. There is continued inquiry from India, but there are few feasible offers. The minor outlets have done very little. Transactions with South America have been made to advance prices have checked business. Yarns are firm." The Manchester Review

The Crop Statement. NEW ORLEANS, April 4.—Semi-weekly movement at thirteen leading interior towns: Receipts, 11,647 bales, against 15,048 last year; shipments, 18,020 bales, against 24,107 last year; stock, 206,173 bales, against 297,499 last year.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, April 4.—The wheat market was in the hands of the bulls today. The trade was treated to fifteen minutes of intense excitement about the middle of the session, the result of which, when added to a gain of 1½c from Monday's close at the opening, showed a net appreciation of 3c per bushel. There was a slight recession from the outside point of the day, but final rigures were 2½ to 2% higher than those of Monday. More reliance is being placed in the crop damage reports, which are being received from the winter wheat beit, and an equally strong argument for higher prices is found in the drought which now prevails in Kansas. California also comes to the front with reports of dry weather.

Corn had a very narrow market showing no independence in its action. The strength in wheat was the only influence that affected prices. May fluctuated between 37% and 37% the close heims 37% to 34% a net gain in wheat was the only influence that affected prices. May fluctuated between 37% and 37%, the close being 37% to 36%, a net gain from Monday of 3 to 36. Oats felt the effect of the general strength shown in the other pits. As there was no particular reason for a decline in prices, they held firm in sympathy with wheat, corn and provisions. At the close May was 34 to 36 higher than at the same time Monday.

Provisions were as strong as anything on Provisions were as strong as anything on the floor. Pork showed signs of concéntrated buying which resulted in a scare among shorts. Prices were rapidly advanced and closed very near the top. Lard and ribs sympathized. A strong hog market helped in the advance. May pork closed 52½ higher than Monday, May lard 30c higher and May ribs 27½ higher.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

By Private Wire to J. C. Knox. Manager.
CHICAGO, April 4.—Wheat opened very strong from 1 to 1% c over Monday's close, the feature being the continued drought in Kaasas. The market immediately sold at 61%c. Some scalpers, during this time, took the short side and when the Washington bureau predicted continued dry weather over the west there was a rush to cover. The country began to send in crop damage reports and accompanied them with good buying orders. The market quickly responded %c, seemed to hesiate a moment, then began to advance rapidly, May touching 52%c. Here realizing orders caused a reaction to 62%c, but only for a moment and prices again quickly advanced %c, later declining that amount and remaining very nervous between 62%2 and 63c, the remainder of the session, while the market has been governed almost entirely by crop scare, some very bad reports being received from the San Joaquin valley, in California and other places, the small shipments from the Baltic and sundry ports allouning to less than 2,000,000 bushels was buillish. These shipments for the past month have been quite light, but on the other hand the report given out by the secretary of agriculture, stating that our exportable surplus, after allowing for home wants, from March 2d to July 1st, would be 69,000,000 bushels, was very bearish, but apparently had no effect on the market, the condition of speculators. Corn and oats have been firm but dull. Provisions participated in the advance today, opening very strong on the light stocks -75,550 barrels of pork, 1,450 tierces lard and 1,610,000 pounds short ribs. Shorts immediately became good buyers, and assisted by the bulge in the wheat market rapidly advenced to 12.12½c for pork; 7.07½c for lard and 6.05 for ribs. Pork eased off a little, but lard and ribs held firm. The closing was strong. was strong.

IT'S THE TALK OF ALL THE TOWN THE FORMAL SPRING

The Rarest Entertainment Given in Atlanta in Many Years-No Extra Charge for Reserved Seats.

Much has been said and written about the press club farce which occurs at the Grand opera house next Monday night, but there still remains much more to be said and writ-

Nothing has been written by way of describing the ravishing costumes that will be vorn by the three gentlemen who will take the part of ladies. It is said that the waist measure of one of them is only-but, of course, you had better be on hand to judge for yourself. The dresses were designed by a relative of Worth, who was given the secret of the dressmaking and costuming art by his grandfather, and who has consented to make use of it for the first and last time in this affair. The gowns will all be replete with new color combinations that will be as startling in their effects as they will be beautiful and elegant.

As Madame Benano Aditi, John Thompson is going to be a bright, particular star, and in his great plano act, which will be a prelude to the regular performance, will raise the roof and still have enough energy left to take the bakery.

But he is only one of the many stars. The whole affair is one of constant stellar per-sonages and the number of people on the stage will be the largest ever seen at the Grand. There is Joe Johnson, the red-headed the humorist, the mimic, the impersonator! You will have to see him to know how great he is and to see what a perfect woman he can be. Then Judge Andy Calhoun! Adjectives get scarce and take to the woods. If you know him you won't fail to be on hand. He is simply going to out-

Herod Herod, which he is able to do. And Judge Jim Anderson! The more you say about it the richer it becomes. There's Colonel Snollygoster Ham, who will be present to help out the programme. Colonel Adair, as a witness on matrimony, will convulse the audience with his bright witticisms, and it is understood that he intends to tell one of his bright, new jokes before leaving the stand.

NEW BALL GROUNDS.

Workmen Are Moving Rapidly and in a Few Days They Will Be Done. The new ball park will be completed by next Saturday.

And it will be the finest ball park in the And it will be the finest ball park in the south, that of Mobile not excepted.

Fifteen minutes after Judge Lumpkin rendered his decision in the injunction case men were at work on the fence and the grand stand and yesterday afternoon when work ceased the fence was up on three sides of the grounds and the grand stand was ready almost for the roof.

That Atlanta will have the prettiest grounds in the south when the gates are thrown open is beyond doubt. Mr. W. E. Randolph, one of the best known traveling men of the country, who happens to be one of the greatest baseball fans of the world, has seen every baseball park in world, has seen every baseball park in the south, and after looking over the new Atlanta grounds yesterday afternoon, stated that Atlanta would lead the league in the matter of grounds.

"I have" said Mr. Randolph, "been in every ball park in the south, and there is but one park that can begin to touch the one you are now putting up here, and that is the one in Mobile. In my mind there are very lew parks in the Natlonal League that can beat the one this promises to be. The only difference is that most of the parks of the big league are sodded, while this is a skinned one. Give this park plenty of green grass and there is none of them that can beat it. In the Southern Association I think Mobile has the best park outside of Atlanta. I have, as I have said, seen all of them, and if this grand stand is run up the way it is promised, then there is nothing in this section of the country that can beat it."

Mr. Woodruff, of the Atlanta Consolidated company, says that the grounds will be ready for occupancy before Sullivan and his men are back from Carolina. The grounds will be accessible by the Consolidated and when the season opens can be reached in seven minutes from any portion of the center of the city.

Manager Sullivan and his team are now in Greenville, S. C., where they are playing one of the strongest teams of the south. The team will play in that city again today and will be home Saturday, when the first game of the season will be played. That game will be between Sullivan's Southern League team and Al Marshall's Atlanta team. The game will be played at Brisbine park and it promises to be one of the best games Atlanta has seen in a year.

Al Marshall's team is composed of Atlanta boys and is one of the amateur teams in the south. Some of the men are almost good enough for the ranks of the professional and the indications are that some of them will soon be found among the nembership of some of the Southern Association clubs.

The Baltimores Are Coming. The Baltimores Are Coming.

Manager Hanlon and his Baltimore team will reach the city Sunday afternoon and will play with Manager Sullivan and his Atlanta team two of three days next week. It is not known yet whether the games will be played at Brisbine park or at the new grounds. If the new grounds are finished by that time the games will be played there, but if they are not ready then the games will be played at Brisbine park.

The grounds have been fenced in from the rest of the park, and, on this occasion, none will be admitted except the invited guests of the club.

The hothouses, among the most beautiful in the immediate neighborhood of Atlanta, constitute the chief attraction. These will be thrown open to the inspection of the guests, and an elaborate barbecue will be served in the true Georgia style.

Wurm's orchestra will dispense music from i to lu in the evening, and specthes appropriate to the occasion will be made by Captain E. P. Howell and Mr. F. H. Richardson.

"You are cordially invited as a quest to participate in the opening exercises of the Cosmopolitan Club, at their grounds, Lattle Switzerland, April 5, 1854, in the afternoon, Music will be furnished by Wurm's orchestra, and a fine barbeque will be served.

"By invitation of Robert Dohme, president; S. W. Postell, secretary and treasurer; G. L. Norrman, W. T. Gentry, W. A. Long, H. D. Wakefield, Nathan O. Harris, J. J. Falvey and Dr. J. M. Crawford, directors."

Something About the Glub.

It was the latter part of last November when Messrs. G. L. Norrman, J. M. Crawford, J. J. Falvey, R. R. Arnold, Robert Dohme, H. D. Wakefield, W. A. Long, S. A. Ryan, W. T. Gentry and W. B. Burke put their heads together and formed the notion of organizing a mutual benefit club. In a few days, through their attorneys, Messrs. Arnold & Arnold, these gentlemen submitted an application to the superior court of Fulton county asking for a enarter for twenty years. They wanted the name of the club to be the "Cosmopolitan Club," and they said that the objects of their organization should be the promotion of good leilowship among the members of the club and their mutual pleasure and elevation.

In speaking of the new club yesteruay, one of its urrectors took occasion to remark that the club was not organized for pecuniary gain.

"The organization," said the gentleman.

one of its directors took occasion to remark that the club was not organized for pecuniary gain.

"The organization," said the gentleman, organization of a club for the recreation and pleasure of its members. Of course, however, incidentally to the purposes of the club, the directors are empowered to buy, rent or lease club grounds, and to maintain and keep up such features as clubs like ours usually have.

"The directors of the Cosmopolitan Club." continued he, "have leased the grounds formerly known as Little Switzerland for a period of twelly years, and, in the fature, they will be used for our purposes exclusively. At present we will use the house already upon the grounds, but at no distant date we expect to build a clubhouse that will have no squal in the state."

Atlanta is well supplied with clubs of the character of the Cosmopolitan Club. Among the more noted may be mentioned the Atlanta Chess and Checker Club, the Turn Verein, the Scotch-Irish Society, the Piedmont Driving Club, the Capital City Club, the Christopher Columbus Club, the Commercial Club, the Cotillon Club, the Commercial Club, the Cotillon Club, the Emmet Club, and others.

Of Importance to Parents.

Of Importance to Parents.

Of Importance to Parents.

The scholars' word competition, which is now in progress, affords the young people an excellent opportunity to make some money and at the same time study the English language. The cash prizes, of which there are seven—the first being $50 and the rest ranging from $20 to $5—have been deposited for the prize winners with Géneral Felix Agnus, the publisher of The Baltimore American. All parents having bright, clever children, and the parents of this city have no other kind, should stimulate the young folks to work hard for one of the prizes, which being cash can be applied to many useful purposes. No entrance fee or courans are recuired to enter. The Brown Chemical Company, of Baltimore, in this contest have certainly adopted a novel way of advertising their popular medicine, Brown's Iron Bitters, and it is interesting work as well as relaxation during the evening, to see how many words can be made from one sentence. Another feature is that no scholar sending in a list of real merit will be disappointed, even if not successful in winning a prize, as a dollar bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters will be sent them free. The whole family may help the competing scholar.

Seasonably warm weather has prevailed in most sections of the country during the past twenty-four hours. Cool weather was only reported in some of the northwestern states. St. Paul, Minn., had a miximum temperature seterday of but 40 degrees.

The highest temperatures reported were in Florida and Texas, where in each state temperatures above 50 degrees were common. Outside of Florida and Texas, New Orleans was the only point reporting a temperature as high as 30 degrees. Atlanta's miximum yesterday was 69 degrees.

Cowhided the Cadet.

Winston, N. C., April 4.—Choemal.)—A sensation was created at the Davis Military college today when Lieutenant Shipp gave Cadet Reider a fearful chastising with a rawhide, inflicting such injuries as to necessitate young Reider's being sent to the hospital.

The trouble arose over Reider's cursing and striking Cadet Martin with a rock. The latter received a painful blow.
Lieutenant Shipp siso gave another cadet a thrashing for criticising his action in Reider's case.

Leiutenant Shipp is a United States army officer and controls the discipline of the college.

Welles an Open Letter of Interest to Atlantians and the Entire South.

Rev. A. B. Vaughn, pastor of the Baptist church at Canton, Ga., and one of the trustees of Mercer university at Macon, who is well known in Atlanta and all over the south, said: "On Monday, March 26th. Dr. J. Harvey Moore performed an operation for strabismus-cross-eye—on one of my eyes, which was absolutely painless. I did not believe the operation could be performed without pain, as I had undergone an operation for the same affection at the hands of a most skillful oculist and suffered the intensest pain. Actual experience has shown me that Dr. Moore's operation is painless, as I suffered no pain during the operation nor since, which to me is wonderful."

THE DIFFERENCE

You know a rose nestling in the bunch of commoner flowers centers your love of cultivated nature. That is about our relation. All around us are hundreds of Clothes, Hats, Furnishings that "pass" in a crowd. But our collection -- different entirely---grander---choicer---unapproached---draws forth the wonder and admiration of every fashion follower- This means nothing or much to you, according as you look at it. Now, which is it? Stay away and it means nothing;—come and see, and it means to you, as it has already meant to hundreds of others-the best Clothes, Hats, Furnishings for the least money.

2,000 BABIES

THE LARGEST GROUP OF BA-BIES IN THE WORLD IS NOW BEING MADE BY C. W. MOTES, THE PHOTOGRAPHER. THE PHOTOGRAPHER.

I propose to make the largest group of children under three years old ever made by photography to be exhibited at the Convention of Photographers of America at St. Louis, Mo., next July.

Only 50c will be Charged for Each Sitting

In order to induce parents to sid me in this undertaking I make the following liberal offer: I will give to each of the first five hundred children one fine Cabinet Photograph or aristotype and a souvenir copy of group. In addition, ten elegant, finely finished enlargements will be given as premiums to the ten prettiest children, to be awarded by a committee of competent judges. Make engagements at once and let the fun commence, and urge your friends to do likewise. I am never happier than when making pictures of the little ones and will endeavor to secure the happiest results and make this the largest, best and most artistic work ever produced.

A DESPERATE GANG.

How the Gordon County Grangers Plotted to Murder the Deputies.

SUDDENLY SURPRISED AND CAPTURED

Two of Their Number Found Guilty of Conspiracy-Henry Bell, the Leader, at Last Captured.

Henry Bell, the Gordon county conspira Judge Broyles, having postponed the case until the light of this month, owing to the absence of several important witnesses, and in order to give Bell time to prepare his defense.

The Gordon county grangers was a band of noted desperadoes who lived and flour-ished last year near the thriving hamlet of Calhoun. Composing the gang were some of the most daring and desperate characters of north Georgia. Their deeds of violence terrorized the community and frequent crimes were committed in reckless viola-tion of the law. Last November two of the members were captured, practically disba ing the whole gang. They were tried and found guilty of conspiracy. During the trial evidence of the most startling nature was introduced, showing that the gang was regularly organized to operate illicit distilleries, and defy the revenue officers. Henry Bell, it is said, was the leader of the lawless crowd and directed their movements in a daring manner.

In some way it was learned that the deputy marshal intended to invade their strongty marshal intended to invade their strong-hold. One night in a dark and desolate gulch a plot was formed to waylay the offi-cers and fire upon them from ambush. A solemn and binding oath was taken making death the penalty for divulgence. On the night appointed all the men were on hand heavily armed and determined to do good work, according to their murderous code. They were concealed in a secluded spot in a dense thicket through which they expected the deputies to pass. They waited in vain, however, for the officers were on to the game and deferred the trip. Shortly effer two of the men were cantinged. after two of the men were captured, and the full facts in the case came to light. It was about this time that the barn be-longing to Deputy Marshal Lewis, who was instrumental in working up the case, was burned. All the circumstances pointed to Bell and his associates as the guilty parties, but there was no evidence to convict When the case was called a letter of intim-idation with all the usual skull and cross-bone attachments, was sent to Judge Broyles, impressing him with the fact that an unfavorable decision meant sure and sudden death. Nothing of this nature, how ever, developed.

Bell escaped to Texas, and has been in hiding there until last week. Through the shrewd work of Deputy Marshal Daniels, of the northern district of Alabama, he was induced by a decoy letter to come to that state, where he was arrested and brought white man named John Stockton yesterday afternoon.

Stockton's visits to police headquarters are not so rare as to be spiced with novelty, but his compulsory call yesterday afternoon was unusually dramatic. He was stupidly drunk, and seemed not to realize what he was doing. As he was locked up Station House Keeper Joiner remarked:

"I suppose he's the last of the family. His was went to the stockade Monday; his son's in jall for stealing and now he's on his way to join his wife in the stockade." It is within the memory of many of Atlanta's policemen when Stockton was an industrious mechanic, but he and his wife acquired the drink habit and are frequent guests at police headquarters.

Monday Sergeant White arrested Wheeler Smith on a charge of larceny. He had not been locked up but a short while when several negroes told the sergeant that Smith was Ike Zellars, wanted in Forsyth for murdering his father-in-law in 1879. A little investigation revealed the fact that such a murder had occurred, and also that Zellars answered the description of the murderer. The Forsyth officials were notified, and yesterday the coroner of the county came to Atlanta and carrieu the prisoner to Forsyth. The coroner acted in the absence of a sheriff. The election had just occurred and the sheriff was not qualified. The coroner was not able to identify Zellars as the murderer.

A representative of Eason's convict camp, located at Dorsey, was in Atlanta yesterday looking for two convicts who escaped from the camp Monday night. The convicts are George Anderson and Jim Jones, and rewards of $25 each, have been offered.

terday the Oglesby-Meador Grocery Company filed a petition for a receiver of the assets of Fain & Houston.

The firm for which a receiver is prayed is indebted to Oglesby & Meador in the sum of $114.13, to Cudahy Brothers & Co., in the sum of $45.32, and to L. Cohen in the sum of $60.75.

The petition alleges that the firm of Fain & Houston gave a bill of sale to B. H. Clark for $3,620, the real value of their stock being more than $6,000. Mr. Charles B. Northen has been appointed temporary receiver. The matter is set for a hearing on Apr. 7th, at 9 o'clock.

An Application Is Made for a Charter. $25,000 the Capital Stock.

Through his attorneys, Messrs. Parker & Barge, ex-Congressman Thomas E. Watson yesterday filed with the clerk of the superior court an application for a charter, incorporating him and his third party associates into an organization to be known "Our Publishing Company."
The object of the company, so the appliation says, will be to publish a daily and a weekly newspaper for the political, moral and intellectual improvement of the masses of the people.

The petition says that the capital stock shall be only $25,000, but asks the privilege of increasing it to $100,000. Only 10 per cent of the $25,000, however, has been paid in.

It is evident from the application that big hings are projected with but little funds.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The Unveiling of the Monument to the Unknown Dead.

FULL PROGRAMME, AS ARRANGED

Hon. H. H. Carlton, Who Commanded the Famous Troup Artillery, Will Be the Orator of the Occasion.

Perhaps in no city in the south will the exercises of Memorial Day be more impressively observed than in Atlanta, when the monument, erected by the Ladies' Memorial Association, to the unknown dead, win be unveiled.

If any of the boys who shouldered the nusket, deserve to be remembered, they are those who died away from home, with no one to identify them, on the field of battle.

The anonymous heroism of these brave soldiers, unrewarded, save in the gratitude which is meted out to them in a case was which is meted out to them in a mass, was the equal of any who fell in the cause of the confederacy. They tracked the shadow of the old flag across the fields of Pennsyl-vania and Virginia, and endured the hardships and perils of the march, like true soldiers, only to sleep in graves unmarked and unrecorded. In the dedication of this monument to the unknown dead not only the hearts of all true southern people, but the hearts of all true men everywhere will be touched with

"They deserve it," said a gallant union soldier yesterday afternoon, in an outburst of feeling, "and it ought to reach to the very stars. They fought like brave men and a soldier is a soldier, if he does his duty."

This sentiment will strike a responsive chord in every heart. The day will be observed in Atlanta as no similar occasion has been observed since the dedication of the granite shart in 1813 to the confederate dead.

__illary organizations from all parts of the state will be on hand and the monument will be unveiled with impressive ceremony.

The monument will be wrought of Geor-gla marble, and as such it will be a silent, though expressive tribute to the unknown dead.

Hon, H. Carlton, of Athens, Ga., who will be the orator of the occasion, was the commander of the famous Troup artillery during the war, and was a soldier of daring intrepidity. He has served as the president of the state senate, and as the representative of the eighth district in the congress of the United States.

He is a fine orator and his speech will be a masterpiece of patriotic eloquence. He will be greeted with the largest audience ever addressed by a speaker on a memorial occasion.

ever addressed by a speaker on a memorial occasion.

Captain John Milledge will be the marshal of the day.

Messrs. T. B. Felder and Albert Howell, Jr., will be in charge of the Sons of Confederate Veterats, and these will be mounted on horseback as an escort to the Ladies' Memorial Association.

Colonel L. P. Thomas, who figured with such gallantry in the battle of the 22d of July, will command the brigade of confederate veterans in the procession.

Colonel John S. Candler will be in charge of the military.

STATE OF GEORGIA, COUNTY OF FULTON.—To the Superior Court of said County: 1. The petition of the Cotton States and International Exposition Company shows that on the 6th day of February, 1894, a charter was granted to it by this honorable court, in which its capital stock was limited to five million dollars and in which no minimum sum was fixed or named as necessary to be subseribed before your petitioner should have the right to organize and commence business.

2. Petitioner desires that the said charter so granted it be so amended as that it shall have the right to increase its capital stock, from time to time in the discretion of its board of directors, to any amount not exceeding ten million dollars, and so that it be authorized to organize and commence business upon one hundred thousand dollars of said capital stock oeing subscribed and 10 per cent thereof paid in, and that the foregoing amendment be granted without any prejudice to or impairment of the other powers, rights and privileges embraced in its original charter.

3. Wherefore petitioners pray that this petition be filed and published in terms of the law and that the court will pass an order granting the prayers hereof.

And petitioner will ever pray, etc.

MUST HAVE AN OFFICE

The Commissioners Are Hunting a Place for the Tax Receiver.

WORSE OFF THAN BIRDS OF THE AIR

He Has No Place to Lay His Official Head ly to Being Moved Out.

The county commissioners had their usual routine work, which was relieved the county attorney, a discussion of the tax receiver's office, and a letter in regard to a very curious case.

There is likely to be some dissension—or, to say the least, mild argument-among certain officials of Fulton county and the county commissioners before Tax Receiver Armistead is provided with anything like a suitable office.

The tax receiver is now placed in the same office with the tax collector, who is pushed for all the room that he can get. In fact, the two rooms together are none too large for the immense amount of work that Tax Collector Stewart does away with in a year. Between the belated taxpayers and the citizens who want to give in their taxes, the anteroom, for such it properly is which is used by the tax receiver for an office, is kept well crowded. Now that the tax receiver's work is getting well under way, this state of affairs is becoming more and more noticeable. In order to do away with this, it was at first suggested that the room now occupied by the court stenographers would be a good place, but there was no convenient place to give the stenographers, who are a very important part of the court routine. Finally, the eyes of the county commissioners fell upon the office of Solicitor Thomas. But the solicitor was on hand to enter his protest. It was discussed by the members of the commission. One of them suggested that there was a nice office in the building occupied by the city court, and that this was the very thing for the solicitor, who would be thrown within a few steps of the courtroom. All the members thought In order to do away with this, it was of the courtroom. All the members thought of the courtroom. All the members thought this a good idea.

Solicitor Thomas wanted to be recorded as voting "nay."

The onice now occupied by Solicitor Thomas is one of the best arranged in the courthouse. It is a corner room, and is lighted well by windows on the north side and east side. In fact, it is the kind of office one would like to remain in. The solicitor said that he did not care to leave the office—to tell the truth, did not want to leave; that he was not in good health, and did not care to go to the city courtroom building, where the atmosphere would probably be tainted.

No action was taken in the matter, but something will soon be done for the tax receiver.

Thought He Was Rich.

Thought He Was Rich.

An unusual case came before the commissioners in the shape of a letter from Mr. R. L. Hester, It will be remembered that sometime ago a man was arrested while on a spree. In the meantime, he had given in a lot of fictitious property. After he became sobered up, he went before the general council and was allowed to withdraw his statement in regard to his possession of property.

Another case similar to this was brought before the county commissioners yesterday. It would appear that Mr. Bohannon frequently induiges to such an extent that he becomes nilarious and full of joy towards the world. While in this condition of elation, he is wont to give in the property of his wife, Mrs. E. D. Bohannon, at a much larger figure than is necessary. In fact, he imagines during these off-times that he is immensely wealthy, and acts accordingly. The letter from Mr. R. L. Hester was in regard to this, and stated substantially the same facts. He said that she had been served with a notice to pay $5.95 for state and county taxes at once, while in reality she did not own over $200 worth of property. She is unable to pay the amount, as she has to work for a living for the husband and family. The matter was referred to a committee.

Other News of the Session. Thought He Was Rich.

matter was referred to a committee.

Other News of the Session.

County Attorney Thomson decided yesterday that the county should pay for all the stationery used in the clerk's office, except a certain kind of minor blank paper. The county commissioners were of the opinion that the clerk should furnish these items himself.

It was decided to open the old turn-pike road to Decatur from the city limits at Irwin street to the county line at Morelan avenue. The county will work the road to the clerk that the county will work the road to the county will work the road to the county will work the road. from the city limits to the Air-Line road.

GEORGIA WHISKY

Will Be Herenfter Made According to the Three Gallon Standard.

An order was issued yesterday by the commissioner of revenues through Colonel Chapman which will play sad havoc with the various distilleries of Georgia.

The order specifies that hereafter the output from the distilleries shall be three gallons to the bushel instead of two and a half lons to the busnel instead of two and a half gallons as has heretofore been the law. Quite a number of the distilleries in the state are incapable of coming up to the three gallon standard and will be forced to close down or get new outfits.
